CHINESE TO ASSIST IN EFFORTS OF CONSORTIUM

Allied Bankers Announce Their Desire For Aid From Far East

Warring Factions Said To Be Cause Of Plight Of Country

(Reuter's Service)

New York, October 13.—The second Chinese Consortium meeting was held in the offices of the New York Chamber of Commerce this morning. During the adjournment for luncheon the delegates were the guests of the Bond Club. Short speeches were made by the heads of the delegations, outlining the problems of the Consortium to the members of the Club.

At the close of the afternon session, the following statement was made by Mr. Thomas Lamont:

WANT CHINESE CAPITAL

"The present Consortium is the only one on record officially in welcoming the co-operation of local Chinese capital in the work of the Consortium in the development of China's public enterprises, the building of railways, etc.

"The Consortium has passed a resolution to be communicated to its representatives at Peking that they shall make clear to the Government and people of China that the co-operation of a Chinese group, formed representative of the nation and prepared to undertake the obligations involved, will be encouraged."

In issuing the statement Mr. Lamont emphasised the importance of the decision to administer capital in the development of China, a question not covered by the Old Consortium.

Speaking at the luncheon, Mr. Lamont said that the Consortium was not considering an immediate loan. That question would come later, possibly in the near future, but only upon application by China herself.

CONDEMNS POLITICIANS

Sir Charles Addis, the British representative, said that the Chinese had the capacity for self-government but that the high hopes for the Republic had not been fulfilled because the political parties had not been able to provide a working constitution. He said that China could only be politically safe through her own exertions. The utmost that the Consortium could do was to assist. By the contemplated action of the Consortium China could reduce her military forces, which were absorbing a fourth of the country's revenue.

Other speakers said that they were not yet considering specific plans for China but were outlining an extensive program for her financial rehabilitation.

BELGIUM TO TAKE PART

New York, October 12.—It is stated that the Chinese Conference has reported favorably on the application from a Belgian group of bankers for admission to the Consortium.

Mr. Thomas W. Lamont has been elected chairman.

Italian Socialists Give Allegiance To Moscow Radicals

Rome, October 13.—A Congress of the Italian Socialist Party at Reggio today passed a resolution in favor of adhesion to the Moscow International, at the same time demanding the exclusion from the party of the anarchist and syndicalist groups.

SHIPS MAY BE SEIZED FOR U.S. LIQUOR CARGOES

Prohibition Officers Trail Foreign Masters Who Aid Bootleggers

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, October 12.—Evidence is forthcoming to show that foreign shipmasters have been collaborating with seamen in violation of the Prohibition Law by bringing whisky into the United States. Accordingly the Bureau of Internal Revenue is considering the advisability of seizing and selling foreign vessels implicated in such transactions.

It is further reported that the Bureau has discovered the existence of a connection between seamen and a "whisky ring," which markets the beverages which they smuggle in.

It should be added that the Volstead Prohibition Law specially provides for the confiscation of vessels engaged in liquor running.

GOVERNMENT REAFFIRMS DENIAL OF PEKING COUP

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, October 14.—The Government has issued the following official statement:

"There is no truth whatsoever in the report of a reactionary movement in North China and, as far as the authorities know, no plot of any kind exists.

"The situation has not changed in any way politically beyond the fact that prospects of peace with the South have been improving recently."

Several of the leading Legations informed Reuter that they had no knowledge of any reactionary movement and the outlook appears normal.

Peking, October 15.—The Shun Tien Shih Pao states that the Premier Chin Yun-peng may be appointed as Tuchun of Kiangsu, and that Chou Shou-mo may take over the Premiership.

Gen. Tsao Kun has sent Gen. Sun Yo to Nanking to convey his sympathy in regard to the death of Gen. Li Shun.

A mandate has been issued oppointing Chih Hsih-yuan as Acting Tuchun of Kiangsu.

AIR OFFICIALS HERE TO PLAN MAIL SERVICE

Colonel F. V. Holt, adviser to the Aeronautical Department of Peking and Colonel Tcheng Hung, chief of military affairs of the department, arrived in Shanghai yesterday. They will make a survey of Shanghai for a suitable aerodrome for this port with the view of establishing a mail service between here and Peking.

The were guests at a dinner of Mr. Jabin Hsu, the local deputy of the department, last night at the Carlton.

AIRPLANE OF FUTURE

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 13.—At today's sitting of the Air Conference, Air-Marshal Sir E. L. Elliington gave an interesting forecast of the aeroplanes of the future.

He announced that the Air Ministry was developing two new engines. The first was a "Swash plate" engine, in which an inclined disc on the shaft replaced ordinary crank, and the second was a steam turbine, with which it was hoped to fulfil all the required conditions and greatly increase the cylindrical power. Besides being silent, it would also reduce the physical effort, required of the pilot.

NEW MOTOR PLANNED

Another engine was at present in the design stage, which provided engines in the fuselage, driving propellers in the wings, thus relieving the pilot of the control of the engines as he could signal orders to the engine-room as on board a ship.

Republicans Blamed For First U.S. Entanglements In Affairs Of Nations

Farmers Ask For Greater Aid From Government To Keep Production Of Foodstuffs Up To Limit

(Reuter's Service)

Youngstown, Ohio, October 14—Vice-President Marshall opened his Ohio tour here today. In the course of a speech, he said that a Republican administration had thrown the country into its first foreign entanglement ventures in Cuba, Hawaii and the Philippines

Mr. Marshall declared that the League of Nations was the only method for the settlement of international disputes.

He said that, after America had granted independence to the Philippines, the nation would shed its last drop of blood and spend its last dollar to keep anyone from taking away their independence and, he asserted, it was a question whether, if the independence of the Philippines were referred to war, America would take up the task alone or have the support of thirty countries in the League of Nations.

JOHNSON'S VIEWS

Chicago, October 14.—Senator Johnson, in the course of a speech here today, said that he could see nothing to assail in Senator Harding's latest expression on the League of Nations in which he said that he favored a world association.

TALKS TO FARMERS

Washington, October 14.—Senator Harding told members of the Agricultural Conference, who appealed to him for relief of the "stringent" credit conditions, that the Agricultural Credits Board was preparing a new statement of policy concerning all phases of the credit situation, which would probably be published on Saturday.

A committee from the Board listened for three hours to a delegation of agriculturists on the conditions, which, the latter said, threatened loss to the nation through the reduction of food production.

These difficulties they laid almost wholly on the inability of farmers to obtain financial assistance.

Appeals were made for the issuance of more currency. Senator Harding replied that an issue of nearly $1,250,000 was made a year ago and that the charges that deflation was responsible for the situation, confronting the producers, was unfounded.

CURTAILS TOUR

New York, October 14.—The Republican headquarters announce that Senator Harding will not come further East than Rochester, New York.

Marion, Ohio, October 14.—Senator Harding, speaking here today, said that the old order of world affairs was at an end. He believed that the United States must aid in the formation of an international association to discourage war and to encourage better understanding amongst the nations.

PEACE CHANCES IN SOUTH FAIR; FIGHTS EXPECTED TO ENSUE

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, October 14.—The peace negotiations at Canton have so far been without result. It is understood that General Mo Yung-hsien is awaiting assistance from Peking. Fighting is expected momentarily as the rival factions are building fortifications in the streets.

Yesterday evening the Kwangsi troops at Wongsha fired on a Cantonese gunboat, which escaped without returning the fire.

Million Dollar Fire At Chicago Junction

(Reuter's Service)

Chicago, October 14.—The freight house of the Chicago Junction Railroads with 260 freight cars was destroyed by fire today. The damage is estimated at over $1,000,000.

Berlin, October 13.—A telegram from Hamburg states that a big fire broke out at midnight last night on the 16,000-ton Hamburg-Amerika Liner, Viktoria Luise in the Vulken yards. Four fire-engines were summoned.

SERVICES SUNDAY ABOARD WARSHIPS

Services for sailors will be held under auspices of Navy Y.M.C.A. on board U.S.S. Huron and New Orleans Sunday morning at 10:15 a.m. The speakers will be the Rev. Paul Hutchison and the Rev. Maynard T. Stauffer. Special music will be furnished by Miss Alice Fitch., Miss Lamond, Miss Stewart, Miss Taylor, and Dr. W. W. Peter.

Motor boats for the respective ships will leave the Customs Jetty at 10 o'clock and those interested, are cordially invited to attend.

This afternoon at 2 p.m. fifty boys of the City Y.M.C.A. will be conveyed to the Flagship Huron and shown the sights of an American Cruiser.

On Sunday evening at 7:30 p.m. a special service will be held at the "Y" and Mr. C. W. Petitt of the National Committee Y.M.C.A. will speak. There will be special music including a vocal solo by Mrs. C. W. Petitt. The public is invited to this service.

While the American Cruisers are in port the Navy "Y" is maintaining Open House and an entertainment of some nature is given each evening.

It is expected that a party of sailors will next week be taken for a two-day excursion to the City of Hangchow.

UKRAINIAN REBELS DRIVE BOLSHEVISTS AWAY FROM KIEFF

(Reuter's Service)

New York, October 14.—An Associated Press telegram from Warsaw says that a Polish statement has been issued that a Russian concentration began on the southern front with the object of attacking the Ukrainians as soon as the armistice was signed.

Several reports have been received in Warsaw to the effect that the Bolsheviks recently evacuated Kieff under pressure from the Ukrainian insurgents, who have occupied the city.

U.S. Minister Crane Will Arrive Sunday

The American Minister, Mr. Charles Crane and Mrs. Crane will arrive in Shanghai Sunday evening at 9 o'clock and will remain here for probably two weeks as guests of Acting Consul-General Perkins and Mrs. Pekins.

Mr. and Mrs. Crane are coming to Shanghai to greet their son, Mr. John Crane, who is coming to China for a year's stay before completing his work as a student at Harvard University, and their daughter Mrs. Bradley and her two children. Mr. John Crane is coming to China for a year's stay before completing his course at Harvard University where he has been a student for the past three years. The son and daughgter of the American Minister are to arrive on the steamer Nanking which is due on October 20.

Tientsin Dealers Principals In Suit

Suit to recover $11,641.22 and Tls. 91 based upon an alleged breach of contract was filed yesterday in the United States Court for China by Mr. G. Steinberg against Mr. Oscar Wagman, both of whom are of Tientsin. The plaintiff is represented by the firm of Messrs. Kent and Mounsey.

It is set forth in the petition that an agreement was entered into on April 4 of this year concerning the marketing of 713 piculs and 64 catties of raw Siberian tails which were to be sold in America. It is alleged that settlement in accordance with the agreement has not been made by the defendant and the sums given with costs are asked.

SIBERIA PLOT BY DYNAMITERS CAUSES ARREST OF THOUSAND

Death Of Communist Chiefs Is Part Of Plan To Overthrow Radicals

WRANGEL VICTORIOUS

Three Red Regiments Are Captured And Munition Factory Wrecked

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 13.—The sensational rumors, current during the past few days with regard to anti-Bolshevik outbreaks throughout Russia, have not received any confirmation from official sources. It is wise, therefore, to take them somewhat sceptically at present in view of previous stories of an impending collapse of the Bolshevik regime.

Nevertheless it seems beyond doubt that the Soviet is encountering trouble in Siberia for, according to a Helsingfors message, the Bolshevik paper Pravda, admits that over a thousand persons have been arrested in various towns in Siberia for complicity in a plot to blow up bridges and railways, to kill Communist leaders and to organise peasant revolts.

The leaders of the conspiracy are declared to be ex-officers of Admiral Kolchak's and General Semenoff's armies.

London, October 13.—A wireless message sent out from General Wrangel's headquarters chronicles a continuance of successful operations, particularly in the Alexandrovsk district, where the passage of the Dnieper has been forced, three regiments have been captured and a Red munition factory containing 50,000 shells blown up.

JAPANESE MAKE OWN STEEL BY NEW PROCESS

War Office Says Industry Is Result Of Attitude Taken By Chinese

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, October 14.—The War Office announces the discovery of a method of utilising volcanic iron and sand in the manufacture of steel, thus making Japan independent of steel imports.

The War Office says: "Recurrent anti-Japanese movements in China since the Treaty of Versailles, have forced Japan to seek a means to secure an adequate home steel supply. Experiments commenced in September with iron and sand, the Japanese supply of which is unlimited.

"Tolerable success is being obtained from practical experiments at Penchihu blast furnaces. This is successful from a military point of view only and does not necessarily ensure economic advantage."

Britons Overseas Asked For Funds

Shaftesbury Homes And Ship Arethusa Need $100,000 To Carry On Work

An appeal for funds with which to carry on the work being done in the Shaftesbury Homes in Britain and on the Arethusa training ship has been addressed to Britons overseas by Mr. Henry G. Copeland, Secretary of the organisation directing these national refugees for homeless children. Dr. Copeland in a communication he has issued says $100,000 is needed to carry on the work without impairing its efficiency.

It is pointed out that five years of war have added enormously to the maintenance charges and the danger has arisen that some of the homes may have to be closed.

While the war was in progress no less than 350 vessels under the British flag carried Arethusa boys and old boys from Country Homes of the Society were in 150 Home and Dominion regiments. In these homes about 1,100 boys and girls are being trained for useful employment.

Last year the Arethusa sent 70 percent of her boys to sea.

Donations may be addressed to the Treasurer, Mr. C. E. Maiden, 164 Shaftesbury Avenue, London W.C.2.

Famine Relief Work Needs Co-operation, Is Complaint At Tientsin

Grain And Money Sent To Sufferers At Tsangchow By Committee

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tientsin, October 15.—It is understood that the Tientsin Relief Committee received $100,000 yesterday from Shanghai. This is presumed to be an allocation of the $275,000 appropriated by the Shanghai organisation for famine relief.

This illustrates the difficulty under which the Committee here is laboring through incomplete co-operation with Peking, because the Committee is uncertain how funds are coming in and being distributed. Consequently, there is a danger of some district being overlapped and others neglected.

The Relief Committee yesterday forwarded 3,000 bags of grain and $25,000 in cash to Tsangchow, as a distributing center.

It is felt at present that few officials in the famine area can be relied on. Consequently food and funds are being sent to missionaries, who can co-operate with the local officials, while keeping a tight hand on the purse-strings.

A prominent committee-man expresses the opinion that the funds are not coming in here as quickly as had been hoped, considering the famine is at our very doors, but a bigger campaign is being developed next week.

Premiers Agree On German Reparations

(Reuter's Service)

Brussel, Oct. 13.—According to the "Libre Belgique" the discussions in London between Mr. Lloyd George and the Belgian Premier, M. Delacroix, with regard to German reparations have been successfully concluded.

The Geneva Conference will not be held, while the Reparations Commission, after hearing the Germans' explanation of their proposal, will report to the various Governments instead of arriving at a decision itself.

A further Conference will be held at Brussels.

GREENWOOD DENIES RESIGNATION RUMOR

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 13.—Sir Hamar Greenwood, the Chief Secretary for Ireland, in the course of a speech at Belfast this afternoon, said that Lord French, Sir Nevil Macready and himself were in complete accord and that no one of them was resigning.

The Government was proceeding with the Home Rule Bill and was prepared to enlarge it very generously in order to secure a complete and final settlement of the Irtish question but it could not tolerate the independence of Ireland or a part of Ireland.

The Government believed that the Imperial strategic unity of Ireland was fundamental for the peace of the United Kingdom and the well-being of the Empire and would not budge on its fundamental verities.

Send Subscriptions For Famine Relief To These Officials

Subscriptions and gifts to afford relief to the famine sufferers may be made to any of the four honorary treasurers who have been chosen to act for the famine relief organisation formed here. These are:

Mr. Sung Han-chang, The Bank of China.

Mr. Fu Siao-en, The Commercial Bank of China.

Mr. William Morris, The British American Tobacco Company.

Mr. G. H. Stitt, The Hongkong and Shanghai Bank.

Donations of food and clothing also will be received at the headquarters of the relief association at No. 22 The Bund, the former German Club.

DANCE IS GIVEN BY WOMAN'S CLUB FOR U.S. SAILORS

Men From Visiting Warships Entertained At Town Hall By American Ladies

Between 300 and 400 American sailors from the U.S.S. Huron and the U.S.S. New Orleans and also a few British sailors from British warships in port were entertained last night at a dance given in the Town Hall by the American Woman's Club. It was estimated that nearly 700 persons were on the floor for the dancing while probably 200 were content merely to look on at the gay scene.

The big hall was draped from end to end with flags of all nations and the music was supplied by the band from the Huron. Mrs. C. S. Lobingier, President of the American Woman's Club gave a cordial address of welcome which brought forth rounds of cheers from the men after which a response was made by one of the men of the Huron.

Mr. George Fitch of the Y. M. C. A. was in charge of the floor arrangements and was assisted by members of the club. In the course of the evening home made cake with fruit punch, coffee and doughnuts were served nor were the men who had been obliged to remain on watch on their ships forgotten for a quantity of the refreshments were sent aboard to them.

It was announced at the dance that the officers and men of the two American warships are to give a return dancing party at the Town Hall a week from last night.

Armenia In Another War Against Turks

(Reuter's Service)

New York, October 14.—An Associated Press telegram from Erivan states that Armenia is plunged into a new war against bands of Turks and Tartars. General Seeboc is commanding a conscripted army of 34,000 men.

JAPAN TO DISREGARD CHINA AT CHIENTAO

Foreign Office Says Troop Movement Will Be Continued

PEKING FLAUNTED

Officials' Rejection Of Nipponese Aid Is To Be Ignored

REASONS GIVEN

Tokio Promises, As Usual, To Withdraw As Order Is Restored

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, October 14.—The increasingly critical situation at Chientao renders it impossible for the Japanese to give up the measures they are now taking for the protection of the Consulates and of Japanese subjects, says a Foreign Office statement, issued apropos of the Waichiaopu's refusal to permit Japanese forces to co-operate with the Chinese at Chientao.

The statement continues: "Mr. Obata on October 9 communicated the Japanese reasons for the despatch of troops to Lungcheng Sung, Tatungkow, and Paitsaokow, receiving the reply that China recognised the circumstances which rendered the Japanese measure necessary.

REFUSE CO-OPERATION

"The Japanese, therefore, begun their preparations when on October 12 Mr. Obata received a note in which the Waichiaopu, contrary to its previous commitment, refused the reinforcement, which it had been agreed should be sent by Japan.

"While regretting the Chinese refusal of friendly co-operation, the Japanese will proceed to despatch a sufficient force to wipe out the course of evil and establish tranquillity in the whole of the border districts.

"The troops, which are merely a temporary measure to meet the critical situation, will be withdrawn as soon as the danger is over and peace restored."

FLEE FROM PAITSAOKOW

Tokio, October 14.—It is semi-officially stated that Paitsaokow, Chientao, is in danger from a thousand maranders. It is guarded by only 100 Chinese soldiers. The populace are evacuating the place with their valuables.

Korean malcontents taking advantage of the situation are reported to be gathering on the border regions, declaring that now is the time for sacrifice.

S.S. WORKERS HEAR NOTE FROM MIKADO

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, October 14.—The Minister of the Imperial Household, Baron Nakamura, today read the Imperial message to the Sunday School Convention, the delegates standing to hear it:

"His Majesty is highly gratified that the Convention, assembled in Tokio for the great purpose of world peace and promoting the happiness of mankind and attended by many nations of the Orient and of the Occident, has been conducted with such success, fulfilling high expectations and thus contributing to the advancement of the principles of humanity."

Such action from the Throne is very unusual. The Convention closed with enthusiastic Banzais.

Japanese In Denial That Negotiations With U.S. Are Ended

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, October 14.—A report from Washington, featured in a certain section of the press this morning to the effect that the American-Japanese negotiations have been broken off, has elicited an authoritative denial from the Foreign Office.

The statement says that the report is not only untrue but that the negotiations are making fairly satisfactory progress, favorable to Japan.

BRITAIN TO AID CIVIL AVIATION

Conference Is Held At London To Discuss Air Problems Of Future

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 12.—A conference, promoted by the Air Ministry, opened at the Guildhall today for the purpose of reviewing the progress of civil aviation. Major-General Sir F. H. Sykes opening the discussions, declared that the watchwords of aerial navigation must be safety and reliability.

He was of opinion that mails formed the basis of civil aviation from which constructional transport aspects would develop.

Sir F. H. Sykes considered that the onus of linking up the Empire did not rest on Great Britain alone. Each Dominion and Colony must form its own nucleus of air development and thus gradually build up a complete system.

He regarded as the key routes of the Imperial system the England to Egypt and Egypt to India routes and advocated the trial of commercial day and night services on the former.

Mr. Winston Churchill, presiding at a luncheon of the members of the Conference, said that the Government intended to help civil aviation by every means in their power but in the main civil aviation must fly by itself and the function of the Government was to facilitate and stimulate its action. He declared his conviction that the future of British aviation would be great and bright.

MONTHLY JOURNAL IS PUBLISHED BY ENGINEERS' BODY

A new publication that will be received with considerable interest in many quarters is the Journal of the Association of Chinese and American Engineers, the first issue of which has lately been issued. As is known the association was formed at Peking November 22, 1919 by Chinese and American engineers with the sanction and approval of the Chinese Government.

The objects of the association are: The advancing of engineering knowledge and practice, the maintenance of high professional standards and the fostering of a spirit of co-operation and fellowship among engineers.

In the initial issue of the association's journal following an interesting introduction, which gives an outline of engineering conditions in China, is a series of articles among which are: "Operation of the Chinese Government Railways," "The Commission on Railway Technics, "Its Plans and Organisation," "Address of the Chairman at the opening of the first Civil Engineering Conference," "The Mission of M. Paul Painleve," "Surveys of the Chuchow-Chinchow and Chouchiakou-Hsiangyang lines," Tayeh Steel and Iron Works," "The Rockefeller Foundation at Peking" and the "Shih Kia Chong-Tsang Chow Survey."

The first issue of the journal also gives a list of the members of the association.

SUNDAY SERVICE LEAGUE

Mr. Robert Powell, deputational secretary of the China Inland Mission, will address the Sunday Service League on the much discussed subject of "True Patriotism," being his personal observation of two years' travel through fourteen provinces.

The meeting will take place Sunday, October 17 5 p.m. at the Martyr's Memorial Hall, 120 Szechuen Road. His rich experiences will give a truer and better understanding of this country.

TO TAKE CORNS OUT SO THAT THEY STAY AWAY

Pick them right out, roots and all. Soften callouses so they are easily scraped off with the dull edge of a knife. The medicated and oxygenated foot-bath produced by a handful of Reudel Bath Saltrates in a gallon of plain hot water is all you need. This soon dissolves, and extracts the oil and sebaceous matter from hardened, calloused, and "corny" skin, leaving it soft as fresh putty. Has no effect on sound, healthy skin. All chemists keep Reudel Bath Saltrates in stock put up in packets of convenient size and at very low price. Get a trial supply tonight. NOTE.—Messrs. A. S. Watson and Co. of 16 Nanking Road, Shanghai are at present in possession of large supplies of Reudel Bath Saltrates.

SIMMONS COMPANY NAMED IN SUITS

Mr. Sukeichi Inoure, a Japanese and Mr. Sze Yue-cheong are plaintiffs in two suits that were filed in the United States Court for China yesterday against Thomas W. Simmons and Company.

In the action filed by the Japanese it is alleged that in the months of February and March the defendant firm agreed to pay a commission of Gold $85,000, in connection with the sale of certain cotton spinning mills. The plaintiff asserts that the sale was carried through according to this agreement, but only sum of Gold $45,000 was paid as commission. The sum of Gold $40,000 is asked for with costs.

In the suit of the Chinese it is alleged that the Simmons Company agreed to pay commissions in the sum of Gold $25,000 to the plaintiff for effecting the sale of certain cotton spinning mills and that though the sales in question were carried out, only Gold $15,000 has been paid. The sum asked for in this suit is $10,000 and costs. Mr. F. J. Schuhl is attorney for the plaintiffs in both actions.

Honolulu Chinese Accord Welcome To Students On Way To United States

The cordial welcome extended by the Honolulu Chinese to the Chinese students on the Nile, which conveyed them to the United States, was described in a letter addressed to Mr. David Z. T. Yui, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. by Mr. Charles Wong, of the Chinese-American Bank in Honolulu.

The letter reads:

"Your telegrams of September second and fourth were received in due course. I want to thank you and the National Committee for giving me the opertunity to meet the students. I have always taken a great interest in students, and have profited much from exchanging views with them. I am particularly pleased to meet students directly from China, because I believe they are the hope of our country.

"The steamer Nile was a day late in getting here, due to trouble with her boiler. She reached Honolulu on Friday, September 17, at noon, with the students all well.

"Upon arrival, the students were met at the pier by a committee of young men and women, organised under the leadership of Mr. K. F. Lum, Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and Mr. F. T. Ching, President of the Chinese Students Alliance. After a tentative program was mapped out with valuable suggestions by Dr. Y. Y. Tsu, the whole party was taken to the Y. M. C. A. whence it was separated into groups and taken to the various points of interest about the city.

"In the evening, a Chinese dinner was provided for the students at a local restaurant. This was given by the Chinese community, and was made possible by the generous co-operation of the Chinese Consul Tan, Vice-consul Li, and the Chinese merchants, with the student body here. After the dinner was over, the students were taken to the Y. M. C. A. where a social program awaited them. "Movies" and music were specially provided for their entertainment. There were brief speeches made by Dr. Y. Y. Tsu and Miss Lue, representing the visitors, and by Mr. F. T. Ching, representing the hosts.

"Our contact with the students, by a fortunate incident, did not end with the evening's entertainment; for, by reason of extra time being required for the repair of the boiler, the Nile did not get away until the 19th. We were glad that the boat extended its stay in Honolulu; for this gave us an opportunity to be with the students longer. I believe that the students from China have been the means of inspiring the students here to love China and things Chinese more than ever before. The contact has been beneficial to us all.

"I want to thank you again for giving us all the opportunity to meet the students, and that you will not hesitate to let us know in advance when other students are scheduled to come this way. I shall always be glad to meet them and be of service to them."

SNAKE FIGHT FATAL TO BOTH

Hazleton, Pa., Sept. 4.—The prize snake story of the season comes from Nescopeck Pass, a point along the Wilkes-Baree and Hazelton Railway, which runs through a wild part of country. Persons picking blackberries heard a commotion and saw a fierce battle between a five-foot blacksnake and a four-foot rattler, which ended in the death of both. The rattler started hostilities when it sank its fangs into the blacksnake about fifteen inches from the tail. The latter turned and encircled the rattler breaking its back, and then crawled off. According to local scientists the venom from the rattler undoubtedly proved fatal, even if the blacksnake was able to disappear into the woods.

News Notes From Peking

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Peking, October 12.—A student named Chu Helen-chi was taken into custody by the police of the second Peking district yesterday for distributing leaflets advocating the abolition of the present government and the establishment of Bolshevik institutions. The young man stated he had received his leaflets from a man in Shanghai named Pi, that he was a thorough convert to the Bolshevik doctrine, and that if the police released him he should again devote his time to disseminating Bolshevik propaganda. His leaflets have been sent to the Commissioner of Police for inspection, and the police are still to prosecute him.

The delegates of the Peking Educational Association who left Peking some days ago for the National Educational Convention which was to have convened in Canton on October 10, have reported to their home body that upon arrival at Shanghai they found the delegates of seven provinces gathered, all afraid to proceed to Canton on account of the political situation there. These delegates are now considering taking upon themselves the responsibility for removal of the seat of the convention from Canton to Shanghai.

At a meeting of the diplomatic corps Saturday the question of the situation of Russians in China was discussed. It is reported that as result of suggestions made by the corps to the Foreign Office, the Chinese government is laying plans for the control of the Russian concessions and private Russian interests which are calculated to conciliate the Russians and allay the fears of other foreign interests involved.

Following the meeting the Dean of the Corps, the Spanish Minister, sent a note to the Foreign Office asking for official confirmation of the mandate withdrawing recognition from the Russian Minister, and suggesting a plan for the control of the Russian Legation and Russian property in the Legation quarter until the recognition of a new Russian government.

Major E. W. White, Chief of the Red Cross Commission to the Philippines, arrived in Peking yesterday and conferred with the American Minister regarding the famine situation. Major White is at present stopping at the Wagon Lits Hotel. He will probably make his headquarters here and devote his time to supervising the famine relief work of the Red Cross in China, which is under the Philippines division of the Red Cross.

The American Minister has received a cable from Washington stating that the central organisation of the Red Cross in Washington has donated half a million dollars towards relief in North China. This amount will be expended under the direction of the American Minister, Mr. Charles R. Crane. The sum is donated to be used as those on the ground see best, but the Red Cross prefers that it be used in constructive works providing the utmost possible number of lives are saved. Plans involving road and canal construction are now under discussion.

The North Famine Relief Association yesterday sent out two squads of four men each to distribute seed for winter wheat planting in the famine area. One squad is proceeding via Tientsin, where it will purchase seed to distribute in Chinghsien and Hsienhsien, and the other via Paoting, where, after purchasing seed, it will proceed to the Tamingfu district. Each squad is supplied with $5,000, and the authority to draw on the Association for further funds.

Mrs. Charles R. Crane, wife of the American Minister, gave the Y.M.C.A. Finance Campaign its opening boost by a reception to about sixty Chinese and Foreign lady workers held in the Legation yesterday afternoon. The reception constituted the first rally for the campaign, which will be opened shortly.

The American Minister and Mrs. Crane are proceeding to Shanghai in a few days to meet their son John, who is arriving in China on the s.s. Nanking about a week from now. They will stop in Shanghai several days filling social engagements, and return in about a fortnight. John Crane is the younger son of the Minister, the older son being minister to Czecho-Slovakia. John has travelled a great deal with his father. He has just finished his third year in Harvard, and after a year spent in China will return to Harvard to take his degree.

Mrs. Bradley, daughter of Minister and Mrs. Crane, is also arriving on the Nanking for a visit with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Russell, of Lake Forest, Ill., and their daughter Marousa, are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Crane at the Legation, where they will spend a fortnight on their tour around the world. Mrs. Russell is the sister of Minister Crane. Mr. Russell is vice-President of the Otis Elevator Co., with which firm he has been connected most of his life. For the past two years he has served the United States Government as a district chief of the Ordnance department in Chicago, receiving the D.S.M. in recognition of his service.

The Administrative Council of the Union Famine Relief Committee will meet hereafter upon every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at the Customs Headquarters.

Mr. Junios Wood, correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, arrived in Peking yesterday from Shanghai.

Dr. Tsai Yuan-pei, President of the National University, has received his travel allowance from the government and will depart on his European tour in a few days.

Peking, October 13.—The Japanese Legation is in receipt of reports from the vicinity of Hungchun stating that the inhabitants are fearful of fresh attack from brigands, and emphasising that help is needed from the outside. Minister Obata has communicated to the Foreign Office the opinion of the Japanese government that the sending of military to police the district is inevitable. The Chinese government is assured that Japanese troops will be withdrawn as soon as peace and order in the locality is assured.

A reception in honor of the birthday of Mme. Hsu, wife of the President, was held in the Tsai Ling-yu in the presidential grounds yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Chow Shu-mu, accompanied by Mr. Hsia Shou-kan, newly-appointed civil governor to Hupeh, arrived in Peking from Tientsin this morning. The Vice-Minister of Education, Fu-Yueh-fen, as personal representative of the President, and several hundred Hupehese of Peking were at the station to welcome the two distinguished natives of that province.

In reply to Tang Chi-yao's protests to the Central Government regarding Liu Tsen hou's advance in Szechuen in contravention of the armistice, the Peking Government has stated that Liu's action has been taken without instructions from his government.

Mr. Chi Yao-san insists upon resigning from the civil-governorship of Shantung, which post he has scarcely taken up. The government is considering the appointment of Pan Fu, Vice-Minister of Finance, who is popular in his native province of Shantung, and is a fellow-townsman of Premier Chin, to succeed Chi.

The Peking branch of the St. John's Alumni Association gave a dinner yesterday in Central Park in honor of Dr. W. W. Yen, Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Hon. President of that Association. Chang Po-ling, President of Nankai College, Tientsin, gave the address of welcome.

The Hupeh residents of Peking held a memorial service in the Hukwang Guild Hall on the National Festival in honor of the martyrs of the revolution of 1911.

Ninety famine refugees from Chichowsien, Chihli, arrived outside the walls of Peking at Teh Sheng Gate yesterday. The Peking Philanthropic Association is feeding and clothing them, and sending them on to Kalgan, where they hope to find employment.

The Chinese employes of the Tientsin Russian concession administration are reported to have resigned as a protest against the proposed participation of foreigners in the administration, particularly of revenues.

PLYMOUTH TOWN IS LOOMING UP

As Tercentenary Of The Landing Of The Pilgrims In America Draws Nearer

GREAT NATIONAL PAGEANT

The Federal Government And The State Of Massachusetts Are Co-operating

Plymouth, Mass., September 4. —J. F. MacGrath, who is directing the organisation work and laying plans for the national official celebration of the Tercentenary of the Landing of the Pilgrims in America, announces that the United States Pilgrim Commission will meet with the Massachusetts Pilgrim Commission and the National Tercentenary Commission shortly when the Federal Commission will be organised, and the actual work on the proposed permanent memorials begun.

He said that every State will be officially represented at the exercises, which will begin, in accordance with President Wilson's Proclamation, on December 21, which will be nationally observed as Forefather's Day, to mark the official opening of the National celebration.

It is expected that Prof. W. P. Baker, of Harvard University, who is now in Europe gathering material for the great national pageant which is to be given at Plymouth during the months of July, August and September, 1921, will have returned to America before the meeting of the Federal Commission and will have the pageantry, which is to cost approximately $125,000, fully developed and prepared.

Several attempts have been made by private interests to induce the National Committee to co-operate with certain institutions and organisations seeking to project foreign propaganda through the Pilgrim Tercentenary. Mr. MacGrath made it plain that public warning should be taken from this notice against giving funds to such organisations in behalf of the Pilgrim Tercentenary because they are not in any way connected with the Tercentenary or its programs.

CO-OPERATING BODIES

Among the organisations that are co-operating with the American National Committee are the following:

General Society of Mayflower Descendants, which is arranging to dedicate its permanent memorial on Cole's Hill during the week of September 5-10, 1921.

The Society of Mayflower Descendants in the State of New York.

General Society Daughters of the Revolution.

National Military Sisterhood.

The New England Society of New York, which will present and dedicate a new facade to Pilgrim Hall.

The Old Guard of the City of New York.

Empire State Society, Sons of the American Revolution.

Rochester, N. Y., Sons of the Revolution in the State of New York.

Daughters of the American Revolution.

The National Society daughters of the American Revolution, which is considering the advisability of presenting a fountain in honor of the Pilgrim Mothers and to be placed between Pilgrim Rock and the foot of Cole's Hill.

Society of the Descendants of Pilgrim John Howland.

The American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society.

General Society of the Cincinnati.

The Colonial Daughters of the 17th Century.

The Improved Order of Red Men, which will present the heroic statue of the Indian chief, Massasoit, which will be placed on Cole's Hill.

The National Society of New England Women, which will present the statue of the Pilgrim Maiden by Henry Hudson Kitson.

The National Society of the Colonial Dames of America, which will present the persistile that is to be placed over Pilgrim Rock.

The Maine Genealogical Society.

The Aero Club of America.

Union Society of the Civil War.

The Girl Scouts.

N. Y. United Spanish War Veterans.

N. Y. Society of Mayflower Descendants.

General Society of the War of 1812.

New York State Historical Association.

The Pilgrim Society is represented by its President, Arthur Lord, who while President of the Pilgrim Society is also a member of the State Commission, which has charge of the building of the sea wall at Plymouth, the relocation of Pilgrim Rock on the spot where it was when the Pilgrims arrived in 1620, the reconstruction of Cole's Hill, Burial Hill, and the marking of forty-one historic spots having to do with Plymouth's early history.

Kappa Alpha Theta Fraternity.

NATIONAL COMMITTEE

The following are the latest names added to the National Tercentenary Committee, which has grown out of the original Plymouth (local) Tercentenary Commission until it has representatives all over the country: Bernard M. Baruch, New York; Jules S. Bache, New York; Louis R. G. Cholmeley-Jones, Washington, D. C.; Abram I. Elkus, New York; Miss Mary Garrett Hay, New York; Miss Mary O. Graham, Raleigh, N. C.; Col. William A. Gaston, Boston; Judson Harmon, Cincinnati; James H. Hustis, Boston; Robert W. Huntington, Hartford, Conn.; Charles E. Hughes, New York; Miss Mary Garrett May, New York; Thomas L. Masson, Glen Ridge, N. J.; Cardinal O'Connell, Boston; Frank C. Patridge, Proctor, Vt.; James M. Parker, Baton Rouge, La.; Reed Smoot, Salt Lake City, Utah; John C. Shaffer, Chicago; Dr. Miles Standish Sherrill, Boston; Melville E. Stone, New York; Henry W. Shoemaker, New York; Charles H. Strong, New York; Henry L. Stoddard, New York; Edgar F. Smith, President University of Pennsylvania; Eliot Wadsworth, New York; George Wigglesworth, Boston; Mrs. Bettie White, Douglas, Ariz.

MAC OF PLACID

Mac of Placid. By T. Morris Longtreth. New York: The Century Company.

Lovers of Stevenson, the man, must add "Mac of Placid" to the volumes of Stevensonia which have been accumulating so rapidly in the past decade. The Stevenson they will meet in Mr. Longstreth's romance is the man just become famous, working on "The Master of Ballantrae," the man skating peerlessly on Saranac Lake and enduring the terrible blizzard of 1888. They will find him as adventuresome as his own Prince Otto, and this in his attachment to Anson MacIntyre, a 20-year-old boy of the region, who is the hero.

This is an "I" story, narrating the life of Mac of Placid from infancy to marriage. In narration both the praise and blame of the romance must be placed, for, although in his introduction Mr. Longstreth declares that his book was built about a true figure, it is as a story and not as a man that "Mac of Placid" will be remembered. The style, which is literally "racy," is often too fast for the reader. The author is moving so rapidly that he neither describes nor characterises. He tells his story, and that story is four-fifths dialogue.

Possibly for this very reason "Mac of Placid" will appeal more to those who love stories of adventure than to lovers of Stevenson.

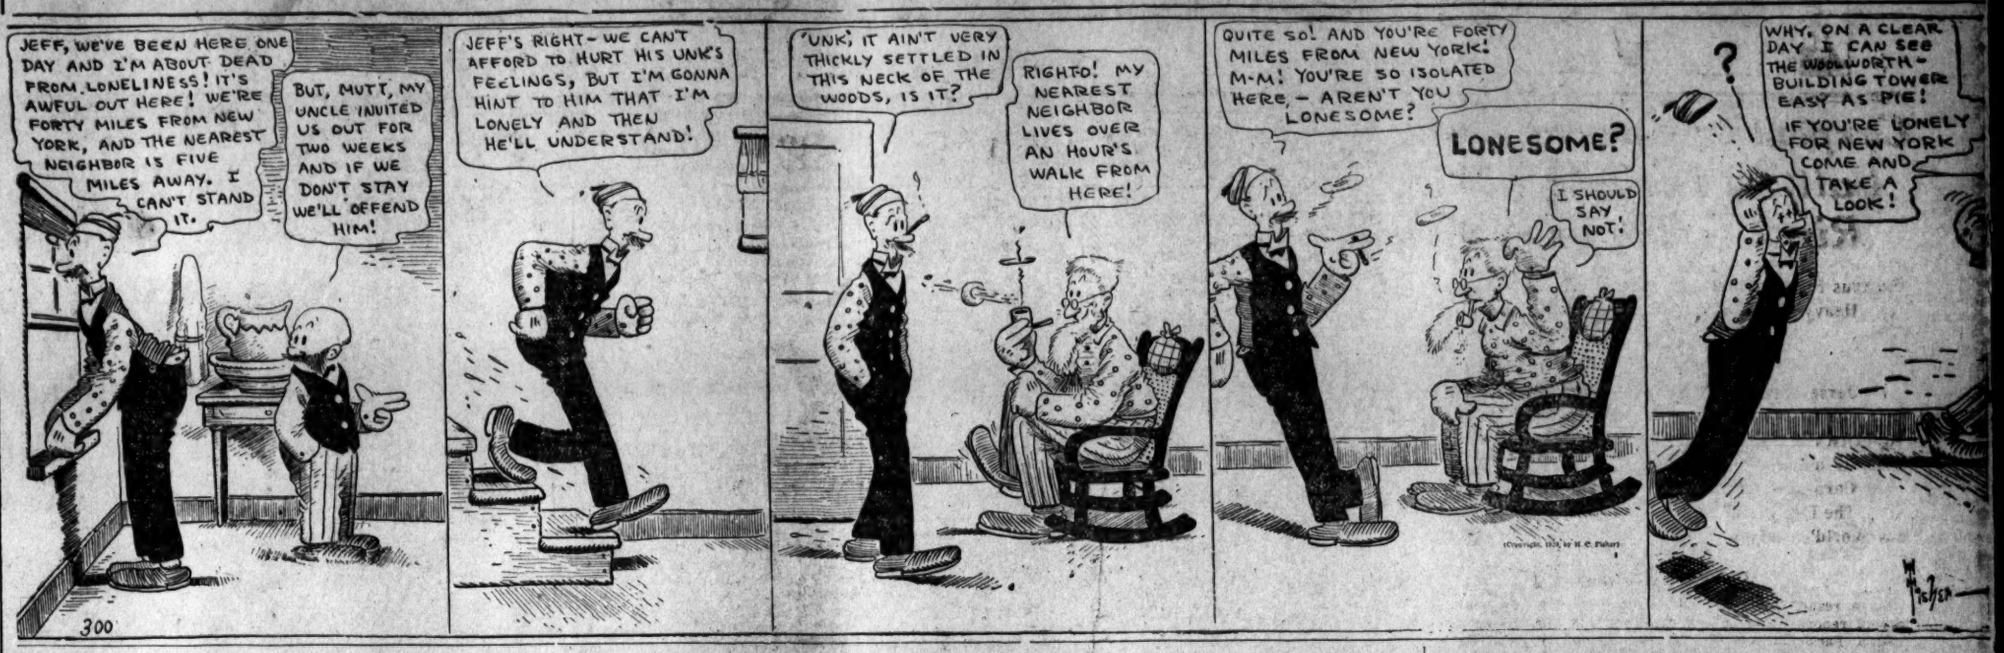
When dealing with historical characters an author may interpret their behavior and thoughts as he sees fit. To interpret, however, by fictitious conversation salted with glittering generalities of optimism, pages upon pages of "greater than thou" advice is to court failure. Tolstoy's picture of Napoleon, Thackeray's portrait of Johnson or Addison—these are not monologues. And as for characterising Stevenson (not to speak of his wife or any of those who surrounded him), Mr. Longstreth's idea of the writer evidently consists of a cigarette burning the mantelpiece, or at the most two knees crossed beneath that "land of counterpane"—or a velvet jacket.

As with the figure of Robert Louis (for so he is called), so with the others. The only possible exception is Tess Mitten, a sort of fille de joie. She leaves an impression on the camera of the mind. But as for visualising Hallie Brewster, whom Mac loves, or her father, or Ed Touch, the villain, or Mac's besotted father, or his flinty mother, or the countryside, or any of the scenes of action, the author offers no help.

The fundamental difficulty with Mr. Longstreth's book is that his characters, no matter how real to him, even though they may be actually alive, often fail to live. There is a lack of motivation. Touch is the puppet villain, Tess the puppet villainess, Hallie the puppet beloved, and Mac the puppet hero. Yes, Stevenson is even the puppet deus ex machina! They move, we see them move, but we know they do not think or feel. Thus it is that "Mac of Placid" is not a man but a story.

Now for those who have not the high light of "Treasure Island," a living story, to look up to, for those who are contented with marionettes, with action, "only this and nothing more," "Mac of Placid" will appeal. It will appeal to those who love to see virtue triumph and vice worsted. It will not satisfy those who wish to know what virtue is or in what vice consists, however.

MUTT & JEFF — Looks Like A Wild Two Weeks Are In Store For Mutt — By Bud Fisher



JEFF, WE'VE BEEN HERE ONE DAY AND I'M ABOUT DEAD FROM LONELINESS! IT'S AWFUL OUT HERE! WE'RE FORTY MILES FROM NEW YORK, AND THE NEAREST NEIGHBOR IS FIVE MILES AWAY. I CAN'T STAND IT.
BUT, MUTT, MY UNCLE INVITED US OUT FOR TWO WEEKS AND IF WE DON'T STAY WE'LL OFFEND HIM!
JEFF'S RIGHT—WE CAN'T AFFORD TO HURT HIS UNK'S FEELINGS, BUT I'M GONNA HINT TO HIM THAT I'M LONELY AND THEN HE'LL UNDERSTAND!
'UNK, IT AIN'T VERY THICKLY SETTLED IN THIS NECK OF THE WOODS, IS IT?
RIGHTO! MY NEAREST NEIGHBOR LIVES OVER AN HOUR'S WALK FROM HERE!
QUITE SO! AND YOU'RE FORTY MILES FROM NEW YORK! M-M! YOU'RE SO ISOLATED HERE,—AREN'T YOU LONESOME?
LONESOME?
I SHOULD SAY NOT!
WHY, ON A CLEAR DAY I CAN SEE THE WOOLWORTH BUILDING TOWER EASY AS PIE!
IF YOU'RE LONELY FOR NEW YORK COME AND TAKE A LOOK!

Carpentier Knocks Out Battling Levinsky; Wins Right To Dempsey Match

Famous French Fighter Conquers Clever Hebrew "Light-Heavy" In Four Rounds—May Meet "Our Jack" In December, At New York

(Reuter's Service)

Jersey City, October 13.—A twelve-round boxing match between Carpentier and Battling Levinsky, considered one of America's finest fighters, took place here tonight in the presence of a huge audience.

Carpentier knocked out Levinsky in the fourth round.

The Frenchman now hopes to meet Jack Dempsey for the world's championship.

By Dudley Burroughs

As a result of his sensational victory over Levinsky, an unconfirmed report of which was published in yesterday's issue of THE CHINA PRESS Carpentier may be said to have definitely earned his right to a match with Dempsey, for the heavyweight championship of the world.

The American champion also boasts a "kayo" victory over the clever and courageous Hebrew light-heavyweight, having floored him for the count two years ago, in three rounds.

But the Dempsey of today is a vastly improved fighter over the Dempsey who contested with Levinsky. It remains to be seen just how much better man—or worse—he is than Carpentier.

MOVED OVER TO JERSEY

As was forecasted in these columns some time ago, the bout was not held at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, as originally planned, but over in Jersey City. The change of location was made necessary by Brooklyn's victory in the National League baseball race requiring the use of the park for the world's series.

It is understood that "Tex" Rickard, famous as the promoter of the Johnson-Jefferies, Williard-Moran and Willard-Dempsey embroglios, has signed Dempsey and Carpentier for a fifteen-round encounter in Madison Square Garden (New York City), to take place some time in December. The terms of this agreement have not yet been made public.

Meagre details of the Levinsky-Carpentier contest indicate that the famous French boxer employed the same kind of tactics which Dempsey uses in the ring—tearing into his opponent before the latter can get "set" and flaying away for dear life, in the hope of breaking down his rival's defences.

CAN FIX HIS OWN PRICES

If this is the case Promoter Rickard can name his own prices for tickets to the Carpentier-Dempsey quarrel. Two whirlwinds of the Dempsey type, pitted against each other in the ring, would be worth going a long distance to see.

Rickard got a top price of $100 for ringside seats at the Willard-Moran go, the last big heavyweight battle to be held in "The Garden." It is estimated that, in order to pay the high prices Dempsey and Carpentier will undoubtedly demand for so important a match, the promoter will have to ask at least $150, and perhaps $200, for the best seats when the heavyweights clash.

The Garden will house, roughly, 10,000 persons. Perhaps 1,000 seats will be erected on the main floor of the building, ranging in price from $150 (or $200) down to perhaps $25 each. The first and second galleries will probably sell at $25 and $20 per seat, respectively! while "bleacher," or "gallery" seats will undoubtedly command $10 each.

CAN BEAT ALL RECORDS

In this way Rickard could probably jam about $600,000 worth of fight fans into his place of business, beating all previous records. Dempsey and Carpentier will likely gamble with him, working on a percentage, and probably divide 60 percent of this amount between them.

This would leave Rickard something like $240,000 with which to pay the expenses of the match and remunerate himself for his own efforts.

Details of the forthcoming match will be published in these columns from time to time.

POLICE SPORTS ENTRIES CLOSE TONIGHT AT SIX

Especial attention is called to the fact that the entries for the various athletic events on the Police Sports program, scheduled for the 30th of this month at the Race Course, will close this evening at 6 o'clock.

Entries have come in bunches during the last few days and good contests are now practically assured in all events on the big card.

Jack Johnson Starts On Term In U.S. Prison

Chicago, September 18.—John Arthur (Jack) Johnson, former world's champion heavy-weight pugilist, failed today to appeal from his sentence of one year and a day in Leavenworth and a fine of $1,000 for violation of the Mann White Slave act.

Johnson, in custody of a deputy marshal, left Chicago at 6 o'clock tonight on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad for the Kansas penitentiary, to begin serving his term.

The former champion and his attorney appeared before Judge George A. Carpenter this morning to file a writ of error and appeal the case, but when assured by the Court that Johnson would be refused his liberty under pending hearing of the appeal, Johnson decided to drop the fight and go to prison.

The negro heavy-weight recently was returned to Chicago after he ended seven years' voluntary exile as a fugitive from justice by surrenderinig on the lower California border. He fled from Chicago seven years ago to escape the sentence which he has now decided to accept. As a result of his flight he forfeited $30,000 bonds.

Terrill Is Winner Of Grand Aggregate

Corporal W. J. Terrill, First Reserves, S. V. C., is declared to have been the winner of the Grand Aggregate prize at the recent rifle meeting of that organisation, and not private A. M. Collaco, as erroneously announced in a CHINA PRESS headline.

It seems that the prize in question is awarded on the showings in Events Nos. 2 to 5, and not Nos 1 to 5, as the headline writer erroneously presumed. The sports Editor gladly publishes this correction of the report.

'MAN-O'-WAR' IS STAKE WINNER IN MATCH RACE

American Speed Marvel Defeats "Sir Barton;" Wins Handsome Purse

(Reuter's Service)

Windsor, Ontario, October 12.—A great horse-racing match for £15,000 and a £1,000 cup was decided today between the United States crack, "Man o' War" and the Canadian-owned horse, "Sir Barton."

The race, which was witnessed by huge crowds, was over a course of 1¼ miles. "Sir Barton," under weight for his age, carried six pounds extra.

"Man o' War" won by eight length in 2 mins., 3 secs.

A WONDERFUL HORSE

"Man o' War," Samuel D. Riddle's marvellous "whizzer" which has thus so decisively defeated Commander J. K. L. Ross's splendid speed-burner, "Sir Barton" has been the racing sensation of the year in America.

On June 12th last, at Belmont Park, this wonderful son of Fair Play, running in the Belmont Stakes event over a course of a mile and three furlongs, broke the world's record for the distance by the amazing leeway of two and three-fifths seconds.

Man o' War negotiated the eleven furlongs in 2:14 1-5 seconds, practically setting his own pace all the way. Sir Barton had established a new American record for the distance during the running of the stake race the year before.

Mr. Riddle, owner of Man o' War, is reported to have refused an offer of $260,000 for the horse.

CESAREWITCH RESULTS

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 13.—The Cesarewitch Stakes was run today. Mrs. G. Robinson's Bracket was first, J. J. Walen's Front Line was second, and ——'s Greek Scholar was third.

Thirty-two horses ran. There was two lengths between first and second and three length between second and three lengths between ket 8 to 1; Front Line 100 to 9; Greek Scholar 25 to 1.

Jewish Club Plans Football Campaign

The annual general meeting of the Jewish Recreation Club was held at the Shanghai Jewish School on Thursday evening last, before a large attendance, including many new members.

Mr. H. J. Sanft presided. He gave a detailed report on last year's balance sheet and discussed the club's financial policy for the coming season.

The balloting for the 1920 Football Committee was very animated, the following members finally being elected to serve: Captain Mr. J. B. Katz, Vice-Captain Mr. H. J. Sanft, Hon. Secretary Mr. Conrad Levy, Treasurer Mr. D. Abraham, Committee Men Mr. C. Fuxman, R. A. Komaroff and H. Whitgob.

It was again decided to enter the second league this year and all communications relative to games, etc., should be addressed to the Hon. Secretary, No. 11 Siking Road.

POTT MEETS TANAKA IN CHAMPIONSHIP ROUND OF TENNIS TOURNEY TODAY

St. John's Court Wizard Clashes With Clever Japanese At Country Club—St. John's Univ. Team Wins E.C.I.T. Title, Defeating Soochow

By "Forehand"

This afternoon, beginning at two o'clock or shortly thereafter, there are "big doings" scheduled for the tennis courts of the Shanghai Country Club.

First will come a doubles match in which Messrs. A. H. George and J. Elmore will try conclusions with Messrs. V. A. Sheldon and W. P. Roberts. This is one of a series of matches which has been going on for the past week, with the idea of choosing a Shanghai team for the proposed invasion of Hongkong next month.

Yesterday Messrs. George and Elmore played a tiffin-time engagement against Messrs. Toussaint and Carnavarro, 1920 doubles champions of the S.L.T.A., yielding to the title-holders only after a hard match, 10-8, 6-4.

Beginning promptly at 3 o'clock—and Secretary George asks the tennis fans to please be settled in their seats around the court when play is due to commence—Messrs. W. S. A. Pott (St. John's Univ.) and J. Tanaka, title-holder, will meet in a five-set singles match for the 1920 Shanghai championship.

This promising climax-round was to have been played a week ago, but Mr. Pott wrenched his knee so badly in his semi-final match against Mr. Roberts that he was compelled to ask for a week's postponement. It is said that he is now quite all right, and prepared to put up a representative struggle against his clever Nippcnese adversary.

This match should bring out some of the finest tennis seen in Shanghai during the present season, and it is expected that a record gathering will be on hand to witness the exhibition.

ST. JOHN'S A WINNER

On Saturday, October 9, the St. John's tennis team defeated Soochow University in five straight matches for the East China Intercollegiate Tennis championship. The score follows:

SINGLES

S.J.U.		S.U.	Scores
C. H. Tyau	vs.	T. Y. Lee,	6-0; 6-1
J. B. Young	vs.	Z. D. Wang,	6-4; 8-6
C. C. Mung	vs.	K. S. Liang,	6-0; 6-4.

DOUBLES

C. H. Tyau and J. B. Young vs Z. D. Wang and K. S. Liang, 6-2, 6-4.

C. C. Mung and M. L. Tsang vs T. Y. Lee and B. S. Young, 6-0, 6-4.

The victory of St. John's is the third in succession and St. John's now becomes the permanent possessor of the Siazenger Cup, which will go with the many other athletic trophies to decorate the library.

Captain Tyau and his team, together with their coach, Professer Pott, held a jollification dinner at the Great Eastern Hotel on Monday night. The victory was celebrated by the students at St. John's by a bon-fire and procession on Thursday evening, which ended with the speeches of congratulation, etc.

The next intercollegiate championship to be decided is that in football and both Nanyang and St. John's expect to give last year's champions, Soochow University, a stiff fight.

CHINESE BOXER CLAIMS HE IS BARRED IN S.F.

Georgie Lee Can Get No Action From Coast Fight Promoters

Georgie Lee, the Chinese boxer, who is winning many bouts in America, and who has just returned to San Francisco from an Eastern tour, says it's just as easy to get the ears of the San Francisco promoters as it is to beat Jack Dempsey.

He avers that it's not a case of demanding a high price for his services but that the California matchmakers simply refuse to listen to him under any circumstances.

"I've wired and written," he says, "asking matches and there is no response. For some reason, San Francisco doesn't want to give me a chance."

Naturally, it's between the local promoters and the manager of any fighter as to whether that lad is to be used. But Georgie has made a good showing and is certainly entitled to some consideration.

Ray To Be Welcomed On Home Coming

The village of Oxhey in Hertfordshire, England, is preparing a great reception for Ted Ray on his return from his American triumph, whenever that may be.

Vardon and Ray are booked for exhibition matches in America until the end of this month, but there have been various reports that they might be induced to prolong their stay. One rumor is that they have been made a most enticing offer from a "vaudeville" syndicate.

Vardon and Ray doing a turn at the Orpheum would be instructive to golfers and interesting to the millions who have never seen the game, but who cannot have escaped hearing about it. Meanwhile the chairman of the reception committee in Ray's village writes:

"We really feel that something more should be done, more fitting to the achievement of our champion, especially as honors in sport obtained from the United States are so scarce."

QUALIFYING SCORES

A correspondent asks what was the highest score to qualify in the national open at Toledo last month? Twelve competitors were tied for the last places in the elect sixty-four with 157 strokes, and all these were permitted to continue in the championship. Among those who failed to qualify were Alec Smith, former open American champion, 161; Charlie Hoffner, 158; George Turnbull, 161, and Phil Gaudin, 164.

FLAGSHIP PLANS "BIG EVENING" FOR FIGHT FANS

Boxing Bouts And Vaudeville Will Entertain Sailors And Pals Tonight

The U. S. S. Huron, flagship of the American Asiatic fleet, will be the scene of some fast boxing bouts at a "smoker" which is being given on that ship tonight under the auspices of the crews' committee.

The entertainment will be held on the forecastle of the cruiser, which will accommodate not only the crew of the Huron but the men from the New Orleans and other ships in the harbor.

The program will be staged as follows, subject to change without notice. Boxing all bouts three two-minute rounds each:

Schnohl (Huron) vs. Rothenhauser, (New Orleans), Fernandez, (Huron) vs. Von Haven, (New Orleans), Lattery, (Huron) vs. Connors, (New Orleans), Koshinskie, (Huron) vs. "Jack" Denton, (M. C.), (Huron), Larkin, (Huron) vs. Fields, (New Orleans).

Brenner of the New Orleans will give an exhibition of expert tumbling. He is said to be a star at this line. Brenner and Beu of the New Orleans will also sing some "jazz songs."

"Eddie" Morris, the popular vaudeville star, who is now on the Huron, will give some songs and some fancy dances. He is said to be one of the best novelty dancers in the Navy.

Palazza, the Italian impersonator, will render some Italian songs and jokes. Palazza has just recently been discovered on the Huron and has proved most entertaining.

A "jazz" vocal quartet will perform. This bunch have only performed once before on the Huron but are one of the best numbers of the evening. This should be a big evening for the sailors and their friends.

A. Weller, who is president of the crew's committee, will be the official announcer of the evening. Mr. Wright, Warrant officer, will referee the bouts.

MARQUARD IS THROUGH

(By U. S. Naval Radio)

Cleveland, Oct. 14.—President Ebbets of the Brooklyn National League team announced today that "Rube" Marquard is through with baseball, so far as the Brooklyn Club is concerned.

Marquard has been indicted in connection with ticket-speculations here.

"Anybody who wants him can have him," said Squire Ebbets today.

Many College Footballers Turn Out To Strive For Places On Varsity Teams

Game Attracts Unusually Large Numbers Of Candidates For Positions—Squads Begin Light Practice—Plenty Of Good Contests Scheduled For Today

By "Right Tackle"

American newspapers recently received in Shanghai give interesting details concerning the preparations being made by the football players, coaches and authorities at the various colleges and universities, in anticipation of an active season on the gridirons of the country.

Knowing the keen interest taken by college and university men in the doings of their respective football teams, even out here in far-away Shanghai, THE CHINA PRESS is making arrangements to give wide exploitation to the more important games of the year, inasmuch as possible.

Following are descriptions of the initial gatherings of the football squads of the larger institutions, together with brief comments on how they "size up." Additional details will be supplied as fast as they are received:

FORTY AT COLUMBIA

New York, September 15.—Exactly forty candidates, seven more than the average squad with which Fred Dawson worked all of last season, reported at the second Columbia football practice yesterday. Four veteran players and several new men donned uniforms for the preliminary workout under Coach Buck O'Neill.

The most prominent of the veterans to report was Frank Canapary, captain of the team in the early part of the 1919 season. The former Blue and White leader was in good condition, although he was several pounds under his normal weight. The other men from last year's 'Varsity squad were Johnstone, Kern and Johnson.

The workout lasted about two hours and a half and was confined to fundamentals. The tackling dummy, however, was introduced and the squad was put through a thorough drill with the sawdust figure.

The practice began with the customary passing and kicking which was followed by practice in starting and the tackling workout. Then came the running down under punts, and the workout closed with a sprint the length of the gridiron.

YALE TEAMS PRACTISE

New Haven, Conn., September 15.—Two teams were picked today for signal drill at Yale Field for the first time this year. After they were picked Tad Jones followed their work. There was no scrimmaging.

The veterans who were on the varsity were Dickens and Walker tackles; Acosta, guard; Callahan center; Kempter, quarterback. The other men on the varsity were Munger and Dilworth, ends, in place of Allen and Reinhardt; Herr, guard, in place of Galt; Aldrich, left half; French, right half, and Webb, fullback.

Thorne Murphy ran the second team at quarterback. Eddy Hagan, the Olympic boxer, reported at the field today and joined the ends instead of going with the backs, as he was last year. Babe Allen notified the coaches today that he would not return for football this year, which leaves two end positions vacant.

BIG PRINCETON SQUAD

Princeton, N. J., September 15.—The first day of football practice at Princeton brought out more than sixty candidates, among them a dozen veterans of the 1919 eleven.

Keene Fitzpatrick was in charge of the men, as W. W. Roper, the head coach, will not arrive here until tomorrow. The day's workout consisted of a two-hour drill in punting and fundamentals.

HARVARD SHAPES UP

Cambridge, Mass, September 15.—The Harvard varsity football squad for this fall's campaign began to take form today after the first cut of the season. Of the 100 men who came out for the team, fifty-one were retained. A further cut will be made next week.

The Crimson material available is considered good. With the nucleus of last year's veterans there are several players prominent at other colleges who have spent the required year of athletic inactivity at Harvard and are now eligible to play.

NAVY HAS BAD LUCK

Annapolis, Md., September 15.—Hard luck is hitting the Naval Academy football squad in chunks, the biggest piece of it being in the resignations of Alford, probably the best back on the squad, and Lowe, substitute end last year, who was needed to take regular berth at left end, Woodruff also having resigned.

Alford was regarded as the best of the backs last season, but received an injury early this season and had to stop. He played a full season of lacrosse and was in splendid shape for football.

One of the best of the new men, Vieweg from Elmira Free School.

W. And J. Football Player Flies To Camp In Airplane

Washington, Pa., Sept. 15.—Earl Loucks of Scottdale, Pa., star right end of the W. and J. football team, used ultra-modern means of transportation in reaching the gridiron camp today, flying the thirty-five miles between the two points in an airplane. The machine was piloted by G. Torrance Overholt, a fellow army aviator of Loucks during the war. The trip was made in eighteen minutes, the airplane alighting here on the golf course of the Washington Country Club.

LEAGUE EXPERTS AGAINST FINNS

Legal Authorities Say They Have No Valid Claim To The Aland Islands

RACIAL DIVISIONS THERE

Wealthy 'Finlanders,' Of Swedish Origin, Opposed To Finnish Radicals

BY WALTER DURANTY

Paris, Sept. 16.—The legal experts of the League of Nations have decided that the Aland Islands do not belong to Finland. This will afford an acid test of the exact present practical authority of the League.

These islands, which on the map lie half way between Sweden and Finland, at the entrance of the Gulf of Bothnia, are linked to the Finnish coast by the dense archipelago of which they form the largest and most western out-post. Between them and Sweden there lies a deep stretch of open sea which practically never freezes, whereas from the end of November to the middle of March the area from Finland to Mariehamn, the Aland capital, is solidly icebound. Nevertheless, the population is nineteenth Swedish, and demands that the islands be given to Sweden or else that complete autonomy be accorded. This the Finns have refused, declaring that the islands belonged to Russia, and were in fact during a large part of the year practically part of the Finnish mainland and were therefore necessary to Finland on strategic grounds. Feeling in both countries has run very high, especially since the breach was widened a few months ago by the arbitrary arrest by the Finnish authorities of leading Alanders of Swedish stock. They were subsequently released, and Finland herself appealed to the League of Nations. It was made clear at the time that Finland asked the verdict of the League on consultative grounds only and did not undertake to accept it as final, not yet being a member of the League.

The verdict being adverse, it is highly probable that Finland will ignore it. Indeed, I was repeatedly told by persons of authority in Helsingfors last Winter that the country would not hesitate to fight rather than give up the islands.

On the other hand, Swedish opinion cannot fail to be affected by the League's recognition of the rights of the Swedish population. The quarrel is embittered by the fact that the Swedes are not only a proud people, with aristocratic and military traditions, but also that they despise the Finns as a semi-barbarous and inferior race. In Finland itself nearly all commerce and industry are in the hands of a minority of Swedish race—Finlanders, as they call themselves, in order not to be confused with the indigenous Finns. The great prosperity and beauty of Helsingfors is entirely their work, while the Finns mostly own land and confine themselves to agricultural pursuits.

The Finns outnumber the Finlanders by about three to one, and the party in power being agrarians the Government is almost wholly in Finnish hands. A further complication is introduced by the acute political differences. When Finland went Red after Lenin's revolution its Bolsheviki were nearly all Finns or Russians, whereas Mannerheim's White Guard, which bloodily broke them, was composed of Finlanders. So the Aland affair presents a problem which demands skill on the part of the League leaders if bloodshed is to be averted.

War between Finland and Sweden would mean civil war in Finland as well, but the Finns are a most obstinate people, and many of them regard the Finlanders as foreign invaders. What is more, the finger of Moscow is ready to dip into a pie that promises such trouble.

BAKER PRAISES LEAGUE

Waterloo, Ia., Sept. 17.—There will be no peace in Europe until the burden of armament is lifted and the fear of war destroyed, Secretary Baker declared here today in a speech devoted wholly to discussion of the Treaty of Versailles and the League of Nations Covenant.

Challenging a statement from Senator Harding's speech accepting the Republican Presidential nomination that the League was "so utterly impotent to prevent wars that it has not even been tried," Secresry Baker declared the League's operation "has already saved one war, though Senator Harding did not know it." He recited the submission to the League Council by Sweden and Finland of the Aland Island dispute.

"Under the old order," Mr. Baker said, "Finland would instantly have occupied the Aland Islands with her military forces; Sweden would have mobilised her fleet, cut off Finnish ships if possible and prepared expeditionary forces for immediate attack. But the League in operation has already prevented one war."

The Secretary also took issue with what he described as Senator Harding's assertion that some such international court as The Hague tribunal with "teeth" in it was the sole agency necessary for the preservation of world peace.

"All of which sounds very simple," Mr. Baker continued, "but whose 'teeth' is the Senator going to put into The Hague tribunal? His criticism of the covenant of the League of Nations is that it may require the use of the armed forces of the United States. Now, our armed forces are our teeth; the sanction of the court is the force it can use to put its decrees and judgments into operation; if The Hague tribunal is to have teeth it is to have force, and the only kind of force which operates among nations is armed force.

"We get nowhere by changing the name of the thing; we get nowhere by using the word 'teeth' when we mean 'soldiers.' It is clear that such a court as Senator Harding must have had in mind would be far more of a super-State than has yet been proposed by anybody; while the only kind of a court that has the least chance of being organised with the consent of the other nations of the world is a court which can decide legal questions and have the conciliation of political controversies among the States to the friendly office of such a body as the Council of the League."

In picturing the machinery set up for the League, Mr. Baker said that the use of military force was "an open question."

"Should a proper case arise," he continued, "the Council would recommend to the several Governments of the League what, in its judgment, ought to be done in a military way; but the action of the Council must be unanimous, and even then it is merely advisory, so that there is no power in the League anywhere, whether by inference or by statement, to compel any nation to use its armed forces or to contribute its armed forces against its consent given at the time it surveys the controversy and measures the necessity. Each nation retains a complete veto upon any recommendation which may be made that it use its military force against any other nation in any controversy."

W. AND J. STARS INJURED

Washington, Pa., September 14.—Coach Morrow abandoned scrimmage practice today for the Washington and Jefferson squad, chiefly because he feared he was bringing along the development too rapidly, but partly because the hard gridiron had resulted in minor injuries to a number of stars in the two scrimmage sessions already held. Instead of a practice game the head coach put the centers and guards through dummy scrimmage.

SECRET DRILL AT LAFAYETTE

Easton, Pa., September 14.—Even though the Lafayette football candidates have had only two days of preliminary practice, Coach Jock Sutherland announced today that secret practice would begin tomorrow morning. The work behind closed gates will continue indefinitely. Last season Coaches Sutherland and Seidel drilled Lafayette behind locked gates the greater part of the year.

In The U.S. Court For China

Trial of the suit of Mr. F. R. Hanish against Fearon, Daniel and Company was resumed yesterday in the United States Court for China before Judge C. S. Lobingier. The action is based upon an alleged breach of contract. The plaintiff contends that he was employed for a specified period of years under a contract which was broken when he was discharged. He is seeking to recover Tls. 70,000.

NICHOLS TESTIFIES

Mr. W. A. B. Nichols, general manager of the firm, was again called to the stand and subjected to a lengthy examination by the attorneys for both sides. Referring to the charge that Mr. Hanish had made speculative purchases, Mr. Nichols declared that instructions from New Cork forbade speculation in imports and ordered great caution in export speculation. Under cross examination, Mr. Nichols admitted that he himself had bought 100 tons of peanuts and 200 tons of seeds for speculative purposes.

Q.—You and Mr. Hanish had the same instructions, did you not? A.—Yes.

Q—Then it is not true that you are trying to accuse Mr. Hanish of doing something which you repeatedly did yourself?

A.—The things I bought were for European trade. There were no orders against speculation in Europe. Besides, the speculations of Mr. Hanish amounted to $600,000, about six times the corporation's capital. There is quite a difference between transactions of that size and $5,000 worth of peanuts.

Q.—Then it is the magnitude of the transactions you object to and not the general principle? A.—Both.

Q.—Did you ever give Mr. Hanish instructions to make speculative purchases for the Trieste market? A.—Only small quantities.

HIDES AND SKINS

The next witness called was Mr. J. J. Brenneman, head of the hide and skin department. He stated that he protested against the purchase by Mr. Hanish, when he was assistant general manager, of a large amount of Yunnan goat-skins, both because he believed it wrong to adulterate consignments of Szechuenese skins by mixing them with the inferior hides of Yunnan and because the New York office had forbidden the purchase of the skins.

PROFANE LANGUAGE

Asked if Mr. Hanish used profane language in the office, the witness replied that the former assistant manager used such language practically every day.

"As far as I know, profane language is used in every office," said Mr. Stirling Fessenden, representing the plaintiff.

"I can understand, however, how the habit might constitute a very serious fault in a manager of a firm, Judge Lobingier remarked.

HAT RACK TROUBLE

A tale of a vanishing hat rack was told by the witness in response to a demand for a specific instance of the assistant manager's misconduct.

A few days after the arrival of Mr. Hanish, I discovered that my hat rack was missing and that my coat and hat were on the floor," said the witness. "Finding the rack in Mr. Hanish's office, I ordered it carried back to my own room because it had been bought especially for me and I had used it for years. A few minutes later, the assistant manager came into my room ranting, roaring, and swearing and demanding to know profanely why I had taken the rackout of his office.

The witness added that Mr. Hanish had once cursed him out of his office and that he repeatedly used bad language over the telephone.

BLAME TELEPHONE

"Everybody in Shanghai does that, said Mr. Fessenden. "It is the fault of the telephone service."

"I remember one occasion when Mr. Hanish cursed Mr. J. Biglin so unmercifully that the man sat completely unnerved for an hour afterwards," the witness said, "He antagonised everybody in the office. I was driven to threaten resigning myself."

Mr. Brenneman also repeated a conversation he heard in New York to the effect that Mr. Hanish and Mr. Love, of the New York office, were conspiring to have the powers of Mr. Nichols, the general manager, curtailed, because they were jealous of his success.

On cross-examination, Mr. Brenneman denied that his department was not making a profit, though he stated that he had drawn no commissions. Asked if he had ever used profane language himself in the office, he admitted that he might have done so thoughtlessly, on a few occasions."

The case will be concluded at a later session.

FINDS CRIME LESS IN 1920

Probation Secretary Credits Decrease To Prohibition

New York, September 12.—There was a 34 percent decrease in the number of offenders brought before the courts in seventeen of the larger cities in this State during the first three months of the year, from the same period last year, according to Charles L. Chute, Secretary of the State Probation Commission, who attributes the decrease in crime to prohibition. His figures show that 45,535 offenders were brought before the same courts during the first three months last year. The decrease is 23,392, or 34 percent.

"In the opinion of practically all the Judges and probation officers consulted this remarkable decrease in court work is attributable largely to the effects of prohibition," Mr. Chute says. "In practically all of the courts by far the greatest decrease has been in cases of public intoxication, disorderly conduct and other offenses growing out of drink, although there has been a decrease in other offenses as well.

"Every court covered by the investigation showed a reduction in court cases due to prohibition. There were no exceptions. For instance, in all the Magistrates' courts of New York City there was a decrease of 52 percent in cases of public intoxication. Only 914 persons were brought before all the Magistrates' courts for the first three months of this year for intoxication, as compared with 1,914 for the same period last year.

"One police Justice writing to the commission expressed the view of many when he said: 'Prohibition has made the police business dull compared with the old regime.' A probation officer states that he finds 'prohibition is instrumental in bringing about better home conditions.'

"A woman probation officer who deals with delinquent boys and girls says: 'Prohibition has turned the tide for the woman and children. Despite the cost of living, men who formerly neglected their families have been able in many cases to start bank accounts, make payments on homes, clothe their families well, put coal in the cellar and get food in the larder, things unknown in some of these homes before the saloons were closed. The best of it is that the majority of these men tell me they don't want the former conditions to return because they have learned what enjoyment can be gotten out of home life not disturbed by drink.

"The commission finds that whereas the decrease in court arraignments in the courts studied was 34 percent the decrease in the number placed on probation system is being used in a larger percentage of cases. Reports also show that with the elimination of habitual drunkards and other intoxication cases coming before the court, which nearly always failed when placed on probation, more effective results are being obtained by probation officers. The opinion was almost unanimous among the probation officers that the effects of prohibition are beneficial to their work."

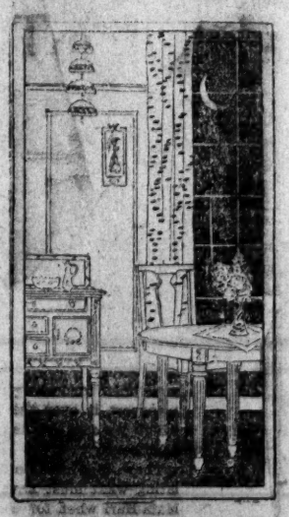
The Stately Homes of England



Have you ever wandered through one of those old Elizabethan Manors, of which England is so proud? Did you notice the black, lustrous panelling, dooring and stairs? Did it not strike you as curious that the wooden beams in the outhouses had outlasted the stone of which the walls were built? The colour of the wood made you curious to know what stain had been used on it? "Time" imparted that wonderful tone to the wood, and all the base counterfeiters of the craftsmanship of a bygone age have never succeeded in producing an imitation which would deceive a babe. The Wood was Oak, the wood which we suggest you should use for your new floor or panelling.

WE SUPPLY OAK FOR FLOORING, WAINSCOTIG, PANELLING, ETC., ETC., KILN-DRIED AND QUALITY GUARANTEED

We give all orders personal attention. After you have placed your order with us, the flooring will be laid and all work carried out under the personal supervision of a foreign expert of the Company. This supervision costs you nothing and we prefer to do this for you.

Insist that all lumber for flooring and panelling for interior work bears the "Three Pines" Trade Mark, and the letters "KD" signifying kiln-dried, thus ensuring its perfect quality, and suitability for the severe climatic conditions of China.

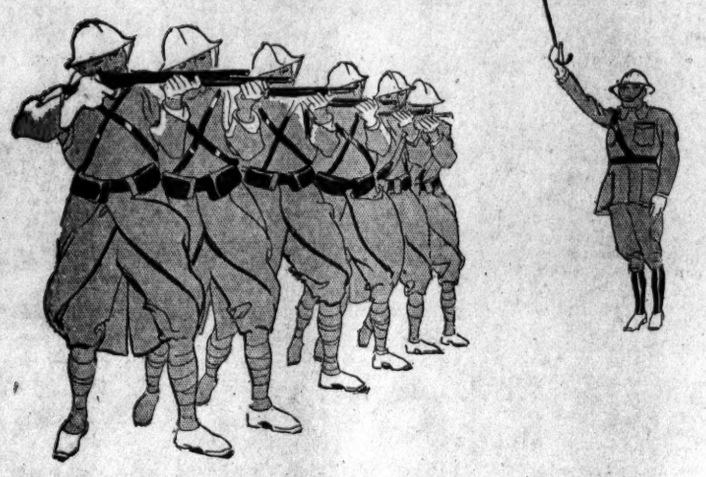
Cruelest Lie—or Truest Mercy?

The Amazing Deception Which Sent the Beautiful Spy Mata Hari, Rouged, Perfumed and Happy, to Face a Firing Squad Whose Guns She Believed Were Loaded with Blanks



Two Pictures of Mata-Hari, the Oriental Dancer and Most Dangerous Spy of the War, Whose Death Agony Furnishes the Mystery That Is Now Exciting Paris—"The Woman With the Body of a Goddess and the Charms of a Demon."

"With a gay and voluptuous gesture Mata-Hari buried her face in her orange blossom bouquet, confident that the execution squad would fire only blank cartridges at her"

PARIS, Aug. 12.

EVERYBODY has heard and wondered at the way Mata-Hari, the fascinating Dutch Oriental dancer and spy, went to her death.

She was gayly dressed and acted as though she were enjoying a dramatic triumph instead of going to her execution. Was it the supreme courage of the woman that led her to face death so gayly? Even at the time many persons thought it was not rational that a woman who had become a spy for money should laugh at death. Was it not more probable that there was some other reason, hitherto concealed, for her strangely frivolous behavior?

A widely circulated report has become current in France that Mata-Hari had received a promise that she should be allowed to escape at the last moment, and that this accounted for her gay and callous demeanor.

The report appears to have originated with some friends of the picturesque and gallant young Frenchman, Pierre de Mortissac, who is now in retirement and exile and was a devoted admirer of the dancer. Those who spread the story are unwilling to discuss it now, as they fear it will bring them into trouble. The French Government has ordered a searching investigation into the whole subject, with a view of finding out what truth there is in the current reports, and if they are substantiated of punishing all persons who were guilty of trifling with the gravest acts of state.

Mata-Hari, who had been intimate with some of the richest of the financiers and "jeunesse doree" of France, Germany, England and other countries, was convicted, after very prolonged proceedings, of selling certain secrets of the tanks and other military information to the Germans.

Several highly placed Frenchmen made the most strenuous efforts to save her life, in spite of the possible danger to themselves, and among them not the least prominent was the gallant Pierre de Mortissac, one of the latest of her admirers. She obtained an appeal from her first conviction by the court-martial, and her execution was in consequence delayed about three months, but the evidence of her guilt was so overwhelming, her acts of treason so numerous that the higher court could do nothing but confirm her sentence.

On October 8, 1917, the beautiful Mata-Hari, "the woman with the body of a goddess and the charms of a demon," was taken in a military automobile, under a guard of soldiers, from her prison in Paris to the gloomy Castle of Vincennes, the place of execution. It was at Vincennes that the traitor Bolo met his fate, and that scores of spies and traitors—no one knows how many—faced the firing squad during the great war. Vincennes has a historic reputation as a place of military execution, for it was here that Napoleon Bonaparte secretly executed the most popular member of the Bourbon family, the Duke d'Enghien.

Mata-Hari was roused before dawn in her prison in Paris and driven to Vincennes, so that her execution might take place at sunrise and be free from public observation, according to custom. She was, however, treated with the utmost courtesy and consideration up to the last moment—more like a princess than a spy. She was supplied with champagne in abundance in her cell and with dainty meals from one of the finest restaurants in Paris.

She dressed in her customary costly and luxurious manner during her imprisonment. Everything that manicures, hairdressers and masseuses could do to maintain the charm and perfection of her body was freely permitted to her. Finally, when the day of execution came, she was allowed to array herself in a most dazzling manner.

She wore a diaphanous costume of Indian silk trimmed with gold lace. Her lips were rouged in the approved Parisian manner, her eyes were pencilled and her body perfumed, massaged and powdered. In her arms she carried—mark this detail—a huge bouquet of orange blossoms. Altogether she seemed more like a bride going to a wedding, an exotic Oriental of wedding, than a poor condemned prisoner.

And here is the reason why the condemned Mata-Hari was so gay and debonair. Some one high in authority, it is whispered, said to her before the execution:

"Mata-Hari, we are not going to kill you. You are too beautiful to die. I could not prevent the death sentence from being passed, but I have arranged that it shall not be carried into effect. When the soldiers are called to attention, preparatory to the order to fire, bury your face in this bouquet of orange blossoms. It will help you to maintain your composure. When you hear the report of the rifles fall to the ground, as though you were dead.

"They will fire blank cartridges, that will not harm even the surface of your beautiful skin. Do not make any outcry. Do not show any fear. I will take care of you afterwards."

This, then, was the reason why Mata-Hari faced her dreadful fate, not merely with calmness, but with brazen gayety. When she arrived at Vincennes the military commandant took her record, according to the rules. She answered his questions with a gay toss of the head and a flash of her dark eyes. Without delay she was led to the parade ground.

The officer in command consulted her as to how she wished to face the firing squad. With the utmost nonchalance she declared that she would remain standing, with her eyes unbandaged. Before taking up her position, as ordered, she executed a pirouette with all her old dancer's skill. Her frivolity amazed the soldiers and filled them with a certain admiration. Her disregard of death has since then been common talk among old soldiers.

"I am ready whenever you are, my children," she called out cheerfully. "Fire straight at my heart."

At the word of command twenty soldiers raised their rifles to their shoulders. Mata-Hari buried her face in her great bouquet of orange blossoms with a voluptuous gesture.

"Fire!" rang out the command.

Mata-Hari crumbled to the earth, her body pierced by nearly twenty bullets. Someone had fooled her. But what was the meaning of this tragic fooling?

Did somebody tell her she would be saved just to spare her feelings, to save her from the agony of anticipating death and to prevent the painful scenes which a woman might easily have caused? Was it really kindness thus to deceive her? Was it the French conception of chivalry that prompted the act—the chivalry that says a woman should never suffer any avoidable distress? Was it the plan of some official, who aimed to avoid shocking scenes which could certainly reflect no credit on the Government?

That the deception was due to one of these causes is the opinion of half of those who have heard of the strange episode. On the other hand, there are others who believe that the plan to rescue her was the work of a lover; that it was meant to be carried through successfully, and that through some other official's act the scheme was frustrated. The great problem, then, is to find out if anybody had the power to save her and who it was that interfered with his scheme.

According to an artist, who moved in the same circle as Mata-Hari and her friends, the man who told her that he would rescue her added these words after those already quoted:

"After you have fallen to the earth the soldiers will go away. Then I will pick up your body tenderly, put it in a coffin, and transport it over the frontier into Spain, where we can live happily. Have no fear, dear heart."

There is a horrible fascination in speculating what must have been the agony of Mata-Hari when for an instant she felt the touch of the bullets and knew that she had been fooled. How much suffering is it possible to compress into the brief space in which one can feel the deadly impact of the bullet before life departs? There are some who argue that a lifetime of suffering can be condensed into an instant. If that be so, Mata-Hari must have suffered to the full, for she loved life to the uttermost, and the thought that she had been tricked would have been unspeakable torment.

If Mata Hari's death was due to a functionary who deceived her would-be rescuer it bears a curious resemblance to the famous drama of "La Tosca," which is well known to have been founded on actual events of the Napoleonic period in Rome. In that case the singer "Tosca" had obtained from the chief of police, in return for the promise of her favors, an order that the soldiers should fire blank cartridges at her condemned lover. At the same time the villainous chief gave secret orders that they should shoot to kill. Thus poor Tosca had the agony of watching the killing of her lover when she was anticipating the delight of leading him away to safety.

Pierre de Mortissac, whom the Parisian club world insists on associating with the Mata-Hari tragedy, was one of the most brilliant figures in Paris. He won the Cross of the Legion of Honor in the war and was desperately wounded. Then he became known as the latest and most infatuated of the many lovers of Mata-Hari.

He has repented of all his follies and extravagances and to-day is atoning for the past as a bare-footed monk in the cloisters of the Cartuja of Miraflores, near Burgos, in Spain.

Mata-Hari, in many ways the most sinister and picturesque figure of the war, was the daughter of a Dutch East Indian planter and a native woman. She learned to dance as a temple girl, married a Scotch baronet, Sir Malcolm MacLeod, whom she deserted, and then went to Europe. Her first successes as a dancer were made in Germany, and there she attracted a circle of admirers, including several prominent noblemen and financiers. It was then that the Germany secret service planned to use her as a spy.

The Intrigue of "La Tosca" and the Roman Chief of Police, a Historic Episode That Closely Resembles the Story of Mata-Hari's Death.

Bolshevism And Italy

THE message which we publish today from Rome, under date of October 13, read in connection with recent telegrams, both from Rome and from Russia, calls for some analysis. The present message says:

A Congress of the Italian Socialist Party at Reggio today passed a resolution in favor of adhesion to the Moscow Internationale, at the same time demanding the exclusion from the party of the anarchist and syndicalist groups.

Recent messages have indicated that while Bolshevism is on the wane in Russia it is on the rain in Italy. But this one implies that the Italian Socialist Party is beginning to view with alarm the progress of Bolshevism in Italy and in fact is no longer satisfied with it. It favors adhesion to the Moscow Internationale but demands exclusion of the anarchists and syndicalists. Unless this demand in met, we take it, the Italian Socialist Party will reject the Moscow Internationale. The Italian Socialist Party, to put it in another way, declines to stand for Bolshevism. And inasmuch as France, Germany and Poland have rejected the movement, the situation in Europe would seem to have made considerable improvement.

The message from Italy, indeed, is most reassuring, for the recent progress there of Sovietism had been impressive. In mid-September, according to despatches, more than 300 of the foundries and factories of Italy's metallurgic center, extending on the River Po and covering its estuaries from Twin on the west to Mantau on the east, from Milan and Novara on the north to Voghera and Parma on the south, had the red flag of Bolshevism floating over them, while the works themselves were being operated by Soviet committees organised by the proletariat, to the exclusion of the so-called bourgeois owners, proprietors and their directorates. And the movement was spreading.

It was this region which during the war supplied the nation with the material means of combat and was the aim of successive Austro-German offensives. It utilises more than 1,000,000 horse power and employs more than 500,000 men. Its products enter into nearly every Italian industry—particularly that of agriculture, which is the chief of all—while its by-products keep going the small manufacturers and artisans of the nation. And then the great Ansaldo, Fiat, Italia, Gnome, Mont Denis and sub-Alpine foundries and factories, to mention only those of worldwide fame, are being operated on the Soviet plan and without the consent of the owners.

According to the best current information on the subject, there was nothing political in the movement and that may have caused the Minister of Labor, Signor Labriola, to regard it as a mere dispute between capital and labor, and the Minister of War, Signor Bonomi, in the same light, and so restrain his hand until blood was shed and property destroyed.

The position of the Government was deemed logical by many on the ground that the factory-seizing movement was presented as a result rather than a cause, the cause being the general lock-out declared by the Employers' National Syndicate, which exercises administrative control over the mechanical and metallurgical trades and industries throughout the peninsula. When the lock-out came the workers invaded the property, took possession, established the Soviet regime and went to work.

The lockout, however, was to anticipate, it is said, a general strike accompanied by the usual destructive demonstrations, and the Government had informed the Employers' National Syndicate that such a strike would be most hazardous for it to deal with, for each riotous demonstration since the war which had been dispersed by force of arms had rendered the Government more and more unpopular and had laid it open to the criticism that it was protecting the "pescecani," or war profiteers, against the rational remonstrance of the laboring man. It was such criticism which caused the downfall of the Nitti Government.

In taking their precautions against the results of a general strike—for the results of the lockout they did not foresee—the Directorates of the various threatened works removed all their treasure and business accounts from their plants. So if the workers continue to manufacture the products they have hitherto manufactured they will be unable to place these products, having no market, no means of transportation and, what is more important, access to no treasury from which to pay the men.

On these handicaps both the Government and the Employers' National Syndicate reposed their hopes of an early surrender of the industrial soviet. Still, in certain factories the workers were said to be forging arms with which to defend their labor, their organisation and the property they have appropriated for their own doubtful profit.

The metallurgical plans controlled by the Employers' Syndicate have had to deal with two organisations of workers, one called the Federasione Italiana Operai Metallurgical and the Cindacato Nazionale Operai Metallurgici, or, respectively, the Italian Federation of Metallurgical Workers and the National Syndicate of Metallurgical Workers, says a recent report. Both seek the same end, complete control of products from factory to consumer, but while the federation would proceed by slow means and through co-operative methods between the workers and the Directorate, the syndicate would go the limit at once and absorb both factory and business office with all their functions without more ado.

Ever since the Giolitti Government came into power in the middle of June the revolutionary industrial press has taken pains to separate itself from the press that was politically revolutionary, for it was discovered that while articles in the former were ignored by the Government, articles in the latter, alleged to inspire sedition and armed revolt, caused the suppression of the papers printing them.

At the same time many persons believed that the advocates of an industrial revolution really had a political revolution in contemplation, and that to make the latter inevitable they had simply to press the industrial revolution to its logical conclusion, when, with all the industries of the country under the soviet regime, all political government would cease, having nothing more to govern, just as all capital would become useless having no longer any function to perform.

To these persons the establishment of soviet rule in the industries of the metallurgic region did not come as a surprise, for they had seen the syndicate at work before it had attempted to divest itself of its political character on the coming of Giolitti. There was the campaign carried on against the "pescocani," which had even caused Nitti and the representatives of the great metallurgic plants to defend themselves in the Chamber. And there was the epidemic of strike, often merely called for a day and in sympathy with an unfortunate worker who had been killed by the police or who had merely been discharged for some reason or other.

All this was in mid-September. Since then the despatches have tended to show a general desire for industrial peace, both as to employed and employers, and the present message demanding that the anarchist and syndicalist groups be thrown overboard by the Moscow Internationale appears to us to be a powerful stroke in behalf of industrial peace progress and production throughout Europe.

WHY CONDUCTORS LOOK OLD

A lady boarded a street car, then:
She opened her bag and took out her purse
And closed her bag and opened her purse
And took out a quarter which she handed to the conductor:
Then she closed her purse and opened her bag
And put in her purse and closed her bag;
When the conductor gave her change
She put her fare in the box
And opened her bag and took out her bag;
And closed her bag and opened her purse
And put in her change;
Then she closed her purse and opened her bag
And put in her purse and closed her bag
And passed into the car.
Fourteen passengers followed her into the car.

A DINNER WITH WHISTLER

"Whistler was as careful of his dress and his hair as a woman. And he devoted no less attention to his breakfasts and his dinners that made the talk of the town. Mr. Luke Ienides remembers calling one afternoon when Jimmy was busy putting things straight; he asked me if I had any money. I told him I had twelve shillings. He said that was enough. We went out together, and he bought three chairs at two-and-sixpence each, and three bottles of claret at eighteenpence each, and three sticks of sealing-wax of different colors at twopence each. On our return he sealed the top of each bottle with a different colored wax. He then told me he expected a possible buyer to dinner, and two other friends. When we had taken our seats at the table he very solemnly told the maid to go down and bring up a bottle of wine, one of those with the red seal. The maid could hardly suppress a grin, but I alone saw it. Then, after the meat, he told her to fetch a bottle with the blue seal; and with dessert the one with the yellow seal was brought, and all were drunk with perfect innocence and delight. He sold his picture and said the sealing wax had done it.

THE NEW WARFARE

The news that the Greeks have taken Enos is of first class military importance since it is likely to revolutionise completely the old-fashioned method of warfare by which an army was frequently compelled to do a good deal of hard fighting before winning its battles.

As a result of the example set us by the Greeks, it will, in future, be totally unnecessary to wait for conquest before we can taste the fruits of success.

In days to come when any nation asks for an estimate for a war, the contractor in submitting tenders will quote for (a) presuming you wish to win this war and (b) presuming you hope to be defeated.

In either case, the contractors will be able to guarantee results.

In question (a) there will, however, be a small additional amount to cover the cost of the Fruit Salts of Victory.

Has England A Dreyfus Case?

Controversy Over Justice Of Convicting Brig. Gen. Dyer For Firing On Indian Mob Grips Britain

BY WALTER LITTLEFIELD

A large section of the press of the United Kindgom, led by The Morning Post and The Spectator, is trying to establish the fact that the British Government has a Dreyfus case on its hands. A smaller section, led by the Northcliffe press and Truth, would disparage this idea and feelingly remonstrates against all attempts to drag the case into public notice.

But into public notice it has come—The Post's public subscription for the culprit has reached nearly $100,000, and there have been public demonstrations, even in far-of India, for a reversal of the alleged miscarriage of justice, and in the middle of July speeches were made in both houses of Parliament severely censuring the Government for convicting a British officer without trial and relegating him to civil life on the ex post facto accusation that the methods he had employed to put down a revolt in India were not those which had the approval of the Government in the present enlightened era of civilisation.

His accusers and judges do not deny that by his drastic action the delinquent may have saved thousands of European lives from torture and death, broken the backbone of a rapidly augmenting rebellion which might have swept away British rule in India; but, they say, he should have been more patient, less given to impulse, have tried all persuasive measures, and then have proceeded in a more circumspect manner.

The name of the convicted officer is Brig. Gen. Reginald E. H. Dyer, 56 years old, with nearly a lifetime spent in distinguished service in India. He was born in Simla, India, of Irish parents, and educated at Middleton College, County Cork, Ireland. His chief accuser appears from the official documents and the Parliamentary debates to be the Right Hon. Sedfin Samuel Montagu, Secretary of State for India and second son of the first Lord Swaythling.

Both his accusers and defenders agree on the following points: The month of widespread riot and revolt in India reached its acme in the first ten days of April, 1919, when mob rule dominated Amritsar, the principal city of the Punjab district, and everybody of European nationality on whom the mob could lay hands was slain, and banks and Government buildings were destroyed. General Dyer was ordered by the civil authorities to restore public order. He arrived at Amritsar on the evening of April 11, made a military demonstration by marching round the city, and posted a proclamation against seditious gatherings. This proclamation was evidently regarded as a bluff, and some of the natives, judging Dyer's character from analogy, said: "We know this Dyer; no bullets are to be feared—nothing but words!" So they tore down the proclamation and pasted up a counter-proclamation in its place. This counter-proclamation read:

"We are the Indian nation, whose bravery and honor have been acknowledged by all the Kings of the world. The English are the worst lot, and are like monkeys, whose deceit and cunning are obvious to all, high and low. Have these monkeys forgotten their original condition? Now these faithless people have forgotten the loyalty of Indians, are bent on exercising limitless tyranny. O brethren, gird up your loins and fight. Kill and be killed. Do not lose courage, and try your utmost to turn those mean monkeys from your holy country."

On the afternoon of April 13 Dyer heard that a crowd of between 15,000 and 20,000 men, many of whom were armed with kukris and cudgels, had assembled for action at Jallianwallah Bagh, or the market place. Dyer immediately marched there with fifty Gurkhas and Baluchis armed with rifles and a couple of tanks, the latter, however, he was obliged to leave outside the Bagh.

As he marched along the people jeered at his soldiers and spat on the ground before them in derision. He deployed his fifty soldiers across the Bagh, and, as the crowd continued to make threatening signs with their kukris and cudgels, he ordered his men to open fire. They did so, and in ten minutes had discharged 1,650 rounds. The Bagh was then clear of people—save for the fifty soldiers and 379 dead and 1,100 wounded natives.

Dyer's work was highly praised by the local civil authorities—notably Sir Michael O'Dwyer, the Lieutenant Governor of Punjab, who before sending in his resignation spoke of "the gallant men of the Punjab who did so much for the empire in a great crisis."

Here General Dyer's defenders make the point that just about this time certain organised bodies of Moslem Indians had begun a propaganda for the British Government to keep its hands off the Sultan of Turkey, whom they pretended to recognise as the Caliph, not only of Ottoman Islam but of the Moslem world at large, and that this was an important factor in the decision of the Government to appoint a mixed white and native commission to inquire into the whole subject of recent Indian unrest.

The majority and minority reports of the commission together with covering despatches by Lord Chelmsford, the Viceroy, and Mr. Montagu, were made public May 26, 1920. Thereupon the Army Council deprived Dyer of his military position and relegated him to civil life. No court-martial was ordered. Dyer was not examined. He was merely allowed to make a statement. An Order in Council did the business.

The majority report, after describing the "murderous antipathy" toward Europeans and noting the number of fatalities, brings out the following salient points:

General Dyer's action in firing is "open to criticism," because he gave the crowd no chance to disperse.

In continuing the firing he committed a "grave error."

It was a "mistaken conception of duty" for him to attempt a "moral effect on the Punjab" by these means.

General Dyer's "crawling order" unnecessarily punished innocent as well as guilty.

The use of bomb-carrying airplanes to quell the rioting at Gujranwala is held to be justified.

There was no evidence of a conspiracy to overthrow the British Government by force.

The minority report, signed by the native members of the commission, rejects completely the idea that there was any anti-British organisation at the back of the disorders. It condemns severely General Dyer and Sir Michael O'Dwyer. This report declares that Dyer ordered his men to fire solely "to punish" the natives, "to make a wide impression," "to strike terror throughout the Punjab" and "to reduce the morale of the rebels," and it proceeds:

"That was why he began to fire without warning and without calling upon them to disperse. He continued firing even when the people began to run away, went on firing till his ammunition was nearly exhausted. Now because certain people, on April 10, had committed certain outrages at Amritsar, to treat the whole population of Amritsar as rebels was unjustifiable; it was still more unjustifiable to fire at the meeting which was not engaged in doing any violence, in order to give them a lesson and to punish them because they had disobeyed his orders prohibiting meetings. It is clear that there must have been a considerable number of people who were perfectly innocent and who had never in all probability heard of the proclamation."

With the two reports is the indorsement of the majority report by the Viceroy, Lord Chelmsford, with the observation that General Dyer did not act with as much humanity as the case permitted.

Then Mr. Montagu, in "acknowledging the reports and the indorsement, writes to the Viceroy as follows, in regard to the cases of Dyer and O'Dwyer and indorses the minority report signed by the native commissioners. After referring to the "immensity of his responsibility which General Dyer felt," Mr. Montagu says: "But he was not entitled to select for condign punishment an unarmed crowd which, when he inflicted that punishment, had committed no act of violence, had made no attempt to oppose him by force, and many members of which must have been unaware that they were disobeying his commands."

That Brig. Gen. Dyer displayed honesty of purpose and unflinching adherence to his conception of his duty cannot for a moment be questioned.

It is perfectly clear that the action of the Army Council degrading and disgracing Dyer, his defenders say, was inspired by the native minority report and its indorsement by Mr. Montagu.

General Dyer's statement of the events at Amritsar in April, 1919, and his vindication of the action which he took there to crush an incipient Indian mutiny, was presented to Parliament on July 7, 1920, in the form of a White Paper. Possibly his most striking passage reads:

"I knew, so far as human foresight could go, that if I shirked the challenge and did not then and there crush the movement, it would have succeeded. ..... All the European population, including women and children, would have been destroyed."

He had before him, he says, not a mob that had assembled negligently or even recklessly, contrary to a proclamation, but one which was there "with the express intention to challenge the Government authority and defy me to take any effective action against it." He fired, he maintains, not exclusively, but sufficient to produce the necessary moral effect. It was the least amount of firing, he affirms, he could possibly have done in the circumstances, and was a horrible duty. The General points out the connection between Amritsar and the rest of the Punjab, and quotes, among others, Sir Michael O'Dwyer, the Lieutenant Governor, who said:

"I have no hesitation in saying that General Dyer's action that day was the deciding factor in crushing the rebellion."

General Dyer finally submits: (1) that the object which he sought was a right object; (2) that the force used was not excessive for the purpose; (3) that, as the result showed, it did achieve the effect desired, and (4) that no less force would have achieved that effect.

In explaining his subsequent order closing the street where a Miss Sherwood had been assaulted and left for dead by the natives, the General admits that he ordered that no native should pass down that street except on all fours—"the crawling order." This meant that the street should be regarded as holy ground. He says that he gave the wounded all the attention which he was able to give with the small force at his command.

In the House of Lords, on July 19, Viscount Finlay, Lord Chancellor from 1916 till 1918, moved the following resolution, which was adopted, after a debate of twenty-four hours, by a vote of 129 to 86:

"That this House deplores the conduct of the case of General Dyer as unjust to that officer, and as establishing a precedent dangerous to the preservation of order in face of rebellion."

Nearly every Cabinet Minister, meanwhile, has defended the Government whose action was attacked by such Peers as Lord Finlay, tht Earl of Middleton, Lord Sumner, and the Marquess of Salisbury, who closed the debate. The Earl of Middleton said, among other things, that with regard to General Dyer, the Government had taken up a position unprecedented in our recent military annals. Their action might not be against military law, but it was against military etiquette and precedent. If an officer was incriminated and subsequently went into action his offense was condoned. Even the Duke of Wellington held that punishment should not be carried out, whatever a man's crime, if he subsequently went into action and he behaved well. Was the justice which the Duke of Wellington gave to the humblest soldier to be denied to an officer of thirty-four years' unblemished service?

WASTING PUBLIC MONEY

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir:—About two months ago the Public Works Department held up traffic in Kiangse Road while it laid a costly asphaltic concrete roadway, and a neat cement pavement with a pretty geometical design. Today, the Electricity Department has turned the same road into a miniature Flanders field, in order that it may lay a new cable beneath the surface.

Surely it is possible to insist on some sort of co-operation between the P. W. D. and Electricity Department in order that such scandalous waste of public money may be rendered impossibe.

Growing Too Stout

BY BRICE BELDEN, M. D.

The different degrees of obesity have been classified as the enviable, the comical, and the pitiable stages. From a medical point of view the condition is considered a disease when it interferes in any manner with the activities of the individual, causing shortness of breath, palpitation and disinclination to physical and mental exertion.

Obesity is most often encountered between the ages of forty and fifty in men, and between thirty and fifty in women, at the very time of life when people ought to eat less than ever before. While there are some obese persons who are not large eaters, it is true to say that habitual overeating is the chief cause of obesity, speaking generally. When too little exercise is combined with the overeating excessive fatness is surely invited.

Diseases invited or aggravated by obesity are Bright's disease, hardening of the blood vessels, apoplexy, gout, rheumatism, gallstones, diabetes, bronchitis, asthma and pneumonia. Obesity also tends to shorten life. The obese person's disinclination to exert himself is due not only to his unwieldy proportions but to a form of blood-poisoning caused by the body's failure to eliminate the increased waste.

Anemic and diabetic patients should never be reduced in flesh and it is dangerous to weaken any person in the course of reduction. If reduction does not make a patient feel better there is something wrong. There is some risk in reducing patients who have been obese a very long time, and great risk in reducing the aged. In the course of reducing any patient periods of stationary weight should be allowed.

Exercise, graduated to the powers of the patient, is essential. Walking and lying on the back and slowly rising to a sitting posture are excellent form of exercise. No patented medicine can be counted upon to reduce flesh.

Puzzle Of The Inertia Of Moving Bodies Unravelled By Journal Scientific Writer, Who Explains Fundamental Laws Of Physics

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

(Eminent Astronomer and Writer on Problems of Scientific Interest)

The problem of the cannon-ball fired backward from a gun mounted on a moving flat-car seems to have an irresistible fascination for many minds, and an equally great tendency to puzzle them. Since it involves a fundamental conception in physics without a clear comprehension of which no sound knowledge of the laws of moving bodies can be obtained, I am going to try once more to make the matter plain.

The velocity imparted to the ball is assumed, in the problem, to be exactly equal to the velocity of the train carrying the cannon, but the two motions are directly opposite to one another in direction. The question is what becomes of the ball, i. e., in what direction, and how much, or how fast, does it move after leaving the muzzle of the gun?

Leaving out of account for the present, the effect of gravity in drawing the ball down toward the center of the earth (an effect that is entirely independent of the velocity of the ball), let us first consider what happens to the ball inside the gun when the powder is fired.

Some correspondents say that because the breech of the gun is retreating at just the same velocity that the explosion imparts to the ball in the opposite direction, the ball will remain motionless at the bottom of the bore; others say that, since the ball has an impulse in one direction, and the gun, with the train, an equal impulse in the other direction, they must separate with a velocity equal to the sum of the two motions.

For instance, suppose both the velocities to be sixty miles per unit of time—hour, minute, or what you like. Then, according to the first set of correspondents, sixty miles' backward velocity of the gun would cancel the sixty miles forward velocity of the ball, and the latter would never start at all. But others see the matter in precisely an opposite light, and affirm with great confidence that ball and cannon would fly apart, one going one way and the other the other with a velocity of 60 plus 60, or 120 miles.

BASIS OF COMPARISON

Now, in order to perceive or measure motion, we must have some basis of comparison. The motion of a body is detected by its change of position with regard to some other body. In the case under consideration we have two bases of comparison—the moving train and the motionless ground or track beneath it. Take the train first. The gun shares the train's motion, and the ball in the gun shares the gun's motion. All three are members of a common moving system. None of them can cast off the inertia of that motion. If I throw an orange inside a passenger car the motion that I give to the orange, as far as concerns the car and its contents, is not affected by the forward motion of the whole train which the orange continues to share. I can throw the orange from the front to the rear, or from the rear to the front of the car with precisely the same speed by making the same muscular effort.

In like manner I could fire a projectile inside or on top of the car, and whether it was fired with or against the direction of the train's motion (barring atmospheric resistance), it would proceed on its way—with reference to things on the rain—with exactly the same speed as if it had been fired when the train was at rest.

CANNOT BE ELIMINATED

One special difficulty which many minds encounter here is to get rid of the notion that when the ball "is in the air" it is freed from the motion that before it shared with the train. As just said above, that motion is a form of inertia, and cannot be eliminated by simply giving the ball another motion inside the moving system of which it forms a part. Inside that hystem such motion will have its effect just as if the system were at rest. Outside the system the effect of the two motions will be combined.

At this point let us change our base of comparison from the moving train to the ground beneath it. The train and all that it carries are moving with a velocity of sixty miles, say toward the right as seen by a motionless observer. The gun on the train is fired toward the left, the projectile receiving from the powder the same velocity of sixty miles. Let the gun be placed with its muzzle just projecting over the rear platform of the train.

A CONCRETE ILLUSTRATION

Now if the observer could see through the side of the gun before it was fired he would perceive the projectile resting there on the powder and moving with the whole train at sixty miles velocity toward the right. When the gun was fired he would see the projectile pass outward through the bore at a velocity of sixty miles, just as if it had been suddenly deprived of its share of the train's motion, or as if some invisible hand had grasped it and held it fast so as to draw it out of der and moving with the whole train ran on, leaving it behind.

And when the ball left the muzzle of the gun (supposing everything working perfectly and disregarding atmospheric friction, etc.) the observer would see it fall vertically to the track at the place where the muzzle of the gun was when the ball left it.

If the ball were fired toward the right it would leave the train behind at the rate of sixty miles and would travel over the ground at 120 miles.

How To Keep Young Girls In Trim

BY DR. WM. A. McKEEVER

What are you doing to keep your young daughter in trim during the warm weather? Send such a girl to a vacation Bible study and home industry school and you will most certainly put a new spirit into her heart and new life into her very bones and marrow.

In two different cities I have recently come across this interesting type of school, and so significant in form as to be worthy of commendation. One of these schools, the larger, is conducted at a so-called Interdenominational cottage, which has all the apparatus and equipment of a happy, modest home.

And at 9 o'clock in the morning there come rushing into the place two dozen sprightly romping twelve and thirteen-year-old misses eager for their work—an hour of Bible study, a brief interval for recreation and another hour or two of home economics. The entire course here is conducted so as to constitute a delightful outing for the girls.

Think of it—a school without examinations. No promotions no one has to "pass" no one under the whip of hurry and necessity; and yet, every member driven on by a fine inner motive. I wish the public school would try this happy scheme and learn to use it as a substitute for its traditional enforced instruction.

In this and the home economics school the teachers declared that the girls were all attending regularly and that the lessons had to make their own appeal for the favor of attention and study. The secret of success is in the variety and personal charm of the program," said one of the ablest teachers. "We make the Bible interesting. We single out its messages particularly fitted to entice the mind and favor of these girls, and they learn eagerly."

The handicraft taught possesses the same virtue; it was a variety of plain needlework, each girl learning to make a simple garment for herself. During the course of their exercise the teacher sat in the center of the group told stories read briefly from books or magazines, gave suggestions and advice and made the affair much like a mere social party. I doubt if a single girl in the class thought of herself as being at work.

And too significant to be overlooked here, is the fact that each girl was in the charming relation to all the alert intellects in the and a teacher. Every new stitch and turn in the garment, every unique or original idea, every instructive error, was quickly flashed to all the alert intellects in the circle and at once became the common possession.

In such a class—were it multiplied a hundred times—I should never expect to find a dull pupil. The peculiar interest and charm of the work is a natural quickener of the intellect.

Why can there not be ten thousand such refreshing vacation schools spring into existence? A parish house a minister, an assistant or two, a small group of volunteer big sisters to sit in the sewing circle; a strong admixture of song, story, laughter, reverence and jolly fellowship—all this simple and inexpensive provision and the moping life of the young Summer girl may be quickly transformed into one of beauty and worth.

Dainty Underthings Of Oriental Fancy

BY RITA STUYVESANT

The beauty of the Orient and the originality of the East are combined in the gorgeous new underwear that is now being shown is the smart shops. Rare shades of soft silk, describe the subtle charm associated with dainty underwear, and although there is quite a demand for the simple, white, embroidered lingerie, the witchery of the tinted fabrics is not to be denied.

It is quite in vogue to fashion entire sets of undergarments from the same material, consisting of a nightie, chemise and petticoat. One lovely set that I recently discovered was cut from crepe de chine in a soft tea rose shade, that exquisite tone ranging from orange to pink. The nightie was accordion pleated and hung from a deep band of hand crochet lace with shoulder straps of the same lacy fineness. Then to lend cache, the lace was threaded with pale blue ribbon and finished with knotted bows at the shoulders and front.

The clever chemise also chose this style and was finished with the crochet and blue ribbons. The slip was cut rather short and there were little bloomers of the silk to wear beneath.

This set might be also developed in pale orchid silk with light green ribbons, or one might reverse the order. Pale blue silk with ribbons of soft apricot shade is another delightful combination and yellow with French blue is most attractive.

Although the crepe de chine is really exquisite, more reasonable sets of underwear might be fashioned from silk and cotton crepe, which sells for about seventy five cents a yard and comes in all the most delicate colorings. This crepe is very good looking and hangs softly, and is most adaptable for this purpose. If one does not know the gentle art of crocheting, she might use heavy filet lace, a good imitation of which might be purchased at a moderate price.

Many women do not favor the lace trimmed underwear, and prefer hemstitching for trimming. There are some excellent models shown in both silk and wash satin, sometimes with casings made by a double row of hemstiching. Through this ribbon is drawn and makes a simple and attractive finish.

HORLICK'S MALTED MILK
A Great Factor in Food Economy.
Pure, full-cream milk enriched with all the nutritive extracts of selected malted barley and wheat in powder form. Every particle is wholesome nourishment, it keeps indefinitely, and there is absolutely no waste. The addition of hot or cold water instantly forms a delicious food beverage so highly nutritious and so easily digested that it advantageously replaces heavier items of diet which require more digestive effort, yet at the same time it supplies fuller nutritive value. It is therefore economical in all respects and suits all ages.
READY IN A MOMENT BY STIRRING BRISKLY IN HOT OR COLD WATER ONLY. NO COOKING REQUIRED.
Accept no substitute. There is nothing "just as good."

TALLEST MAN

Could Not Find A Bed Long Enough For Him In Detroit Hotels

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 4.—Ralph E. Madsen, said to be the tallest man in America, experienced difficulty in finding a lodging place when he reached Detroit.

Detroit hotels neglected to arrange sleeping quarters for men of 7 feet 6 inches, so when Madsen applied for a bed he insisted he must have one without footboards. About eighteen inches of Madsen's lower extremities necessarily must overreach the end of the bed to make sleeping comfortable, he says.

"There are advantages and disadvantages in being so tall," Madsen said. "Sleeping on trains is not so comfortable, but give me a bed without footboards and I make up for lost time.

Madsen has just passed his twenty-third birthday anniversary. He weighs 230 pounds.

Madsen was born on a ranch in Ranger, Tex. He was six feet tall at the age of twelve years.

JAP SMUGGLING PLOT IS BARED

A plot to smuggle Japanese into the United States was nipped in the bud, and the man said to be responsible—K. Ohmi, steward no the Toyo Kisen Kaisha liner Tenyo Maru—is under federal indictment. The stowaways—T. Endo and K. Endo—are being held by the immigration authorities at Angel Island for deportation proceedings.

According to the testimony of these men before the immigration commissioner, they went aboard the Tenyo Maru at Yokohama several months ago to see relatives off, and jokingly asked Ohmi if he would take them to the United States. He replied that he would, much to their surprise. When the Tenyo Maru made its next trip to San Francisco the two men were smuggled aboard, and it was not until the vessel had passed Honolulu that their presence was discovered.

Upon the arrival of the liner here September 10 the matter was at once reported to the immigration authorities by the captain and the three men were arrested.
